TALK OF SUIT ON ONTARIO POWER ISSUE IS HEARD

Chairman of Committee of Beauharnois Bondholders Says Test of Cancellation of Contracts For Great Purchases of Power From Quebec Companies May Be Tested

Premier Foresees No Agreement

Canadian Press

Toronto, April 3.—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said to-day he "couldn't see any possibility" of reaching an agreement with holders of bonds in Quebec power companies whose contracts with the Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission are to be terminated by the government.

"We don't need the power and we are not going to take it," said Mr. Hepburn.

"But if the bondholders get together and come to you with a proposition to cut the price of power or to reduce the amount to be purchased, would you consider their proposal?" the Premier was asked.

"I won't say as to that," replied Mr. Hepburn. "We shall wait to see what move they make, if any."

It was expected the government's action would be discussed in caucus to-day.

The bill to end the contracts was introduced two days ago in the Legislature.

TALK OF SUIT

I. H. Weldon, K.C., chairman of the Beauharnois bondholders' committee, to-day said there was a possibility the bondholders might bring a suit against Ontario outside the boundaries of the province.

While in the proposed legislation cancelling the power contracts with four Quebec companies there was a clause saying no action might be taken against the government as a result, the ban applied to bringing suit in Ontario alone, Mr. Weldon said.

"In that case any money coming to this province through Quebec could be attached," he said.

Ottawa, April 3.—The automobile of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician of the world-famous Dionne quintuplets, which was stolen from Callander, Ont., on November 6 last, was recovered yesterday evening in the garage of a cottage at Britannia, just outside Ottawa, it was stated to-day.

WIDER PLANS FOR SECURITY

Pan-European System Goal of Coming Conference, Say British

Associated Press

London, April 3.—Plans for a Pan-European security system against aggressor nations were stated by a British government spokesman to be a requisite goal of the forthcoming conference of Great Britain, France and Italy at Stresa.

The spokesman said preliminary study of talks by British ministers in Berlin, Moscow and Warsaw had convinced the government that a non-partisan plan open to the signatures of all nations, including Germany, was the only way to insure the future peace of the European continent.

Such a plan, he said, would be suitable for all of the peace-loving nations, large and small, and should be put into effect in the shortest possible time after its construction, probably through the agency of the League of Nations.

In theory the pact would not be directed by name against any one country, the spokesman said, but in practice it would become a heavy force for peace, aimed to keep Germany from bursting out on any side in the event of the Reich refusing to join a collective security system.

It was emphasized that the conversations of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon and Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden in Berlin, and Mr. Eden's trip to Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia were entirely exploratory and that the results necessarily can be collated only when Mr. Eden returns to London, Friday.

FLEE TO SAFETY FROM RIVER FLOOD

While large areas of the central and western region of the United States have had dust storms resulting from drought, people living along tributaries of the lower Mississippi have been having an entirely different experience. These floods have covered large areas. When the above picture was taken a boatman was rescuing a woman and her baby son.

Oil Tanker Strike At Ports of U.S. Still At Impasse

Hint Given at Pacific Cities Freighters and Passenger Ships May Be Drawn Into Walkout Which Has Tied Up Over Thirty Vessels

Some Places Are Short of Gasoline

Associated Press

San Francisco, April 3.—Though members of the government's special mediation board were still hopeful of reaching a settlement, the Pacific Coast oil tanker strike to-day was apparently at an impasse.

A hint freight and passenger vessels might be drawn into the strike which has tied up more than thirty tank ships, unless an early settlement were reached, was seen in a statement issued yesterday evening by the Masters', Mates' and Pilots' Union and the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association.

"The arbitrary position of the tanker group may easily lead to a condition in which the good efforts of the mediation board would be fruitless, and which would destroy the groundwork already accomplished by the industry," the statement concluded.

The mediation board planned to recess to-day after a lengthy conference yesterday with the oil companies. Albert A. Rosenshine, chairman, admitted "the expected common meeting ground has given way to materialism." Preferential employment is the main issue in the walkout of union seamen from the oil tankers.

GASOLINE SHORTAGE THREAT

Tension increased as the oil companies, which have been successful in moving several of their ships with non-union crews, pressed efforts to relieve threats of a gasoline and fuel oil shortage in the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

LOS ANGELES GAS DOWN TWO CENTS

Associated Press

Los Angeles, April 3.—Gasoline prices in Los Angeles were reduced two cents a gallon yesterday by several of the major oil companies. A spokesman for the marketers to-day said the whole price structure on the Pacific Coast was threatened.

Governors of the Pacific Coast Petroleum Agency were called into an executive session to-day to deal with the problem. The spokesman for the major companies said the reduction had been necessitated by price cutting in scattered sections of Los Angeles.

LEAGUE WOULD BAN RADIO PROPAGANDA

Associated Press

Geneva, April 3.—The League of Nations to-day sent to its members a draft convention designed to promote peace by preventing the broadcasting of matter likely to excite war emotions.

Under the convention the States would agree that transmissions from stations in their territories "shall not constitute incitement to war or provocative activities liable to lead to war."

BAKER GETS MUSIC FROM CAKE-MIXER

Courtenay, April 3.—Peter McBride, proprietor of McBride's Bakery, had an unusual and amusing experience recently with wandering radio waves.

He was at work in his bakery about midnight when he heard dance music. He stepped outside, there was no radio anywhere near, no light to be seen. All was silence.

He stepped inside again, looked around, and switched off his electric cake mixer. The sweet music stopped. He switched it on and the music started again.

White Slavery Verdict Given

Lou Barrack, Involved in Vancouver Case, Found Guilty By Jury To-day

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 3.—Lou Barrack was convicted here by an assize court jury to-day of living off the earnings of prostitution.

The jury deliberated only five minutes before it returned with a verdict of guilty. Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald was the presiding judge.

Six girl witnesses had testified during the trial they had given half their earnings as prostitutes to three men, one of whom was Barrack.

Two of the witnesses were the girls whom Joe Celona, Clarence Bancroft and Ellen Joyce were on Monday convicted of procuring to become prostitutes after a six-day trial. Another said she was married.

The girls testified they had worked on the first floor of the Windsor Hotel, which was conducted as a brothel for Orientals. They stated they had turned over half their earnings to Barrack, Dick Moreley or Jack Baker, which ever one happened to be in charge of the premises at the time.

Sentence was deferred until the end of the assizes.

U.S. Restaurant Prices Going Up

New York, April 3.—A gradual increase in restaurant prices throughout the United States to meet rising food costs was predicted to-day on the basis of the general 10 per cent rise in menu prices in New York city this week.

During the last six months, organizations of restaurant managers have been laying the groundwork for price increases, and both in New York and Chicago there have been upward adjustments of charges, it was declared by Paul Hinkel, president of the Society of Restaurateurs, an organization of the larger restaurants in the New York metropolitan area.

Two other large cities which reported price hikes to Hinkel this week are Boston and San Francisco.

WARSAW TALKS RECORD GAINS

Close British-Polish Contacts Agreed on By Eden and Poles

Associated Press

Warsaw, April 3.—Great Britain and Poland to-day agreed to "the desirability of maintaining close contact" on the European situation, with authoritative quarters indicating a pan-European security system as a likely proposal.

The agreement was reached with Polish statesmen by Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, as he concluded two days of conversations concerned with the general peace of Europe and prepared to depart for Prahe and more conferences.

As the conferees parted, they gave each other mutual assurances described officially as concerning "the desirability of maintaining close contact in regard to future developments in the European situation."

From sources considered reliable, it was learned Mr. Eden was told by his host that they would welcome arrangements definitely advancing European peace. Some observers believed this meant discarding the eastern pact, at least in name, but improving its mutual assistance aspects to fit the individual national needs.

Warsaw, April 3.—After his third interview with Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck, Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden to-day expressed a desire to see the ambassadors here of France, Soviet Russia and Italy and the Czechoslovakian minister. The conferences will be held this afternoon.

The British Lord Privy Seal's request was interpreted diplomatically to mean he wished expressions of opinion from representatives of the four nations on changes which Poland had proposed in the projected eastern security pact.

The interviews were to be held shortly before 5 p.m., when Capt. Eden is due to depart for Praha for conversations with the Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister, Eduard Benes.

Maj.-Gen. Ashton to Testify; Board Then Will Visit Camps and Hear Complaints

Men's Leaders Say Inquiry Too Late

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 3.—The Royal Commission investigating conditions in relief camps will hold its first public meeting here to-morrow—the day on which a walkout has been called by officials of the Relief Camp Workers' Union.

Major-General E. C. Ashton, officer commanding Military District No. 11, will be the first witness, Hon. W. A. Macdonald, chairman of the commission, announced to-day. He will tell the commission of the present system of camp administration.

Mr. Macdonald stated the commissioners will probably wait until they visit the camps before dealing with specific complaints.

NO ALBERTA STRIKE

Calgary, April 3.—Camps operated by the Department of Militia and Defence and the Alberta relief commission in Alberta will not participate in the Dominion-wide strike called for April 4, according to a statement by W. R. McConnell, chairman of the Calgary section of the Camp Workers' Union.

McConnell denied Alberta camps were ever included in the plans for the strike, fostered by the Vancouver section of the Camp Workers' Union. He said men working in the camps had been advised to stay on the job.

Notification, he said, had also been sent to the Vancouver section that the local committee was not in a position to care for men who were to have been shipped to Calgary from camps in the Nelson district following the Thursday walkout.

A public statement and copies of a letter mailed to Mr. Justice Macdonald in Vancouver were handed to the press yesterday by representatives of the Relief Camp Workers' Union. The statement said the walkout of men in relief camps would be carried out April 4 as if a commission had never been appointed.

In the letter to the commissioners, union representative said, "We consider the setting up of the investigation committee but a manoeuvre, useless to us at this late hour."

No Aid For Men Who Quit Camps

The threatened relief camp "strike" in B.C. will go ahead to-morrow despite the appointment of a federal commission to investigate complaints against them, it was reported to provincial relief authorities to-day.

In Vancouver yesterday Premier Pattullo informed a delegation that if the men walked out of the camps they could not expect assistance in the way of food and clothing from the provincial government. He urged them to call off the strike, and await the findings of the commission, but this course was declined.

The Premier pointed out the provincial government had done everything possible under the circumstances, having interceded at Ottawa for a commission of investigation, which was granted.

Relief authorities held the view the "strike" would not be widespread in any case. They had reports that groups in some camps proposed to walk out and converge on Vancouver, but had no way of estimating just how many might take this course.

FROM SQUAMISH

Vancouver, April 3.—Sixty men from the Department of National Defence relief camp at Squamish, B.C., have arrived here by steamship. Police stated the men left the camp in connection with the general walkout of relief camps calling for to-morrow by the Relief Camp Workers' Union.

British M.P.'s Son Sentenced

John Russell Given Five Years at Leeds, England

Canadian Press

Leeds, Eng., April 3.—Five years' penal servitude was the sentence passed at the assizes to-day on John Russell, twenty-eight, son of Hamer Russell, M.P., convicted of the attempted murder of his fiancee, Carol Leadbeater, by throwing her into the River Trent.

The prosecution alleged the couple had been secretly engaged for two years when last July, the girl being an expectant mother, they drove to the riverside. The accused, it was charged, led the girl down the bank and the next moment she found herself in the river. She shrieked for help, but none was forthcoming. Fortunately she escaped drowning.

Russell said the girl had suggested committing suicide and thrown herself into the river. "I followed, but got entangled in a branch and lost sight of her," he said. "I drove back to Sheffield."

STILL LOVES HIM

The girl herself denied Russell had attempted to murder her and said she still loved him and wanted to marry him.

Russell pleaded not guilty to the attempted murder charge, but pleaded guilty to two others, of aiding and abetting the performance of an illegal operation, for which he was sentenced to twelve and nine months, to run concurrently with the five-year term.

The prisoner's father, a prominent industrialist and Conservative M.P. for four years, fainted in court when the verdict was pronounced.

Colliery Assets Closely Checked

Canadian Press

Nanaimo, April 3.—"So in 1928, Western Fuel shareholders received $1,350,000 for what was represented in 1922 by $250,000 and in 1921 something for which it is very doubtful if any money was ever paid," declared C. H. O'Halloran, commission counsel, at one phase of to-day's session of the coal commission, now in its fifth day in Nanaimo.

"In other words, the ingenuity of man increased something from no value in 1921, to $1,750,000 in seven years," he continued.

This intimation was disagreed with by Pat Pagan, assistant secretary of the Canadian Collieries, who was on the stand. He claimed that more than $2,000,000 had been spent on the property in ten years. It was brought out the re-organization of the Canadian Collieries in 1930 was effected because the company was virtually foreclosed by bondholders who had $9,012,932 in A and B debentures, plus $2,000,000 in unpaid interest.

The formation of the Wellington Comox Sales Agency was referred to by Mr. O'Halloran as a measure of convenience for the Canadian Collieries, to raise funds.

"The Wellington Comox Agency was a creation with no assets, brought into existence by the Canadian Collieries, having no greater assets than before its incorporation," he declared, referring to transfer of book debts of the Canadian Collieries to the new company.

"Why could these assets not be used to borrow money in the Canadian Collieries, as well as the new company?" inquired Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald, commissioner.

CELONA BAIL IS DISCUSSED

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 3.—Release of Joe Celona from the Oakalla jail on bail pending an appeal to the B.C. Court of Appeal, was halted to-day when J. F. Mather, registrar of the Supreme Court of Vancouver, demanded certificates of title from the land registry office on properties on which the proposed sureties intended to qualify.

Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald of the Court of Appeal yesterday fixed bail at $30,000 with two sureties of $5,000 each and Celona's recognizance for $20,000. The proposed sureties are Mrs. Mary Inzi and Mrs. Josephine Fagundes, who is Celona's divorced wife.

Previous to his conviction, Celona had been free on separate bail on two other charges, and if freedom is granted to-day on new bail there will be bonds totaling $50,000 by other persons, plus $10,000 of his recognizances.

A. E. Branca, who appeared before Mr. Mather on the bail application, expects to have bail completed today, when Celona will be released from the Oakalla jail.

A charge of living off the avails of prostitution against Celona will be tried at the present assizes, it was announced by Dugald Donaghy, special prosecutor, to-day. The same course will be followed in regard to a similar charge against Bancroft.

U.S. Bill Would End Big War Profits

Industrial Conscription and Heavy Income Taxes Proposed in Measure to Be Introduced in Congress

Associated Press

Washington, April 3.—A drastic income tax bill aimed at squeezing every last vestige of profit out of war, and backed by industrial conscription so rigid it has the front lines as an alternative, is the United States munitions committee's plan.

A cardinal principle of the plan, made public by the committee yesterday evening, is "pay as you fight." It will be introduced in Congress next week after preliminary hearings are concluded.

Industrial war-time earnings under the bill would be limited to 3 per cent, and those industrial leaders found unwilling to "co-operate in the war effort" would be told to go to the trenches instead.

But while the measure would press most heavily on persons who in the last war reported excessive earnings, it also would reach into the pockets of the smaller earners to make every individual help pay the cost of conflict while it goes on.

The tax features for industry provide:

A 50 per cent tax on net profit on capital investment of 6 per cent or less.

A 100 per cent tax on all net profit in excess of 6 per cent.

For individuals the bill provides:

Debate Sees Tables Turned

Opposition Silent in Commons; Government Members Do All Budget Talking

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—Overwhelmed with the praise from government supporters, the budget makes slow progress in the Commons.

With speaker after speaker from the Conservative benches, the vote of the House on the taxation programme for 1935-36 recedes into the distance. It may be taken before the mid-week adjournment at 6 p.m. to-day, and it may not; but in any case it will come before the end of the week.

Nine Conservatives and one United Farmer member held the floor yesterday. Not one of the Liberal members spoke. Evidently they desired to embarrass the government by indicating a lack of legislative programme and forcing an election. Conservatives were bent on keeping the House going until the easter recess so Premier R. B. Bennett could return.

Taunts and challenges flew across the floor after every speech. "Question! Question!" the Liberals would shout, indicating their desire to stop debate and begin the vote. "Answer him! Are you nailed to your seats?" Conservatives retorted, attempting to taunt the Liberals into speaking.

This has been an unusual session since the first day and yesterday was

C.N.R. EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

Inquiry Report Big Document

Price Spreads Findings in Federal Cabinet's Hands Next Monday

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—When the report of the royal commission on mass buying is presented to Minister of Trade and Commerce R. B. Hanson next Monday it will be a formidable and complex document. It will contain the general recommendations of the commission in all their phases, but with certain reservations on specific points made by three of the Liberal members. The document will also incorporate the minority report of H. J. Young, Liberal, Weyburn, Sask., which is brief and is believed to express dissent from the entire majority report.

The reservations of the Liberal members, J. L. Ilsley, Sam Factor and Oscar Boulanger are in themselves lengthy documents. In them the dissentients detail the points on which they are in disagreement, explaining why, and substituting other recommendations.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—Gross operating revenues of the Canadian National Railways in 1934 increased by $16,382,759, or 11 per cent over the figures for the preceding year, according to the annual report of the Canadian National system tabled in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals. With this increase in gross revenues, the cash deficit was reduced by $20,347,000. The cash deficit for the last year was $42,497,000.

The report, as presented to the ministry by Hon. C. P. Fullerton, K.C., chairman of the trustees, and F. K. Morrow and J. Edouard Lebelle, K.C., trustees, covers the first year of operation under the board of trustees.

During 1934 the operating results were as follows:

Railway operating revenues, $101,[illegible]

Operating expenses, $151,[illegible]

Net revenue, $12,[illegible]

MORE PURCHASING POWER

William Irvine, United Farmer member for Wetaskiwin, laid before the House two alternatives—monetary reform or revolution. He said credit must be loosened and purchasing power increased.

Mr. Irvine urged the government to take constitutional and intelligent action to increase purchasing power and give the people the credit necessary to purchase the goods they produced. Unless that was done "it is altogether likely the masses of the people, driven by desperation, will take unconstitutional and unintelligent action."

Mr. Irvine urged social credit plans to lead the way out of the depression.

A discussion of Conservatives followed him, but only Victor Forbes replied to his suggestions. It was advisable, he said, to keep abreast of the times in economic thought, but Canada should "use every precaution and not go beyond what is a solid and good, stable currency."

At the 11 o'clock adjournment hour, Hon. Bruno Lapointe, Liberal Quebec East, former Justice Minister, asked the business for to-day.

"We will continue with this debate!" asked Mr. Lapointe while the Liberals laughed.

The only excitement during the day was when one of the few spectators in the north gallery was carried away by his political conviction and shouted encouragement to someone on the floor. A guard threw him out, and the House speed back into monotony.

Higher Bridge Is Advocated

New Westminster, April 3.—The council of the New Westminster Board of Trade yesterday passed a resolution stating the proposed bridge across the Fraser River here should have a vertical clearance of 140 to 145 feet. It stated that height would be necessary to insure the unobstructed passage of present-day and future shipping during the freshets.

Preliminary plans are for a clearance of 140 to 147 feet.

The bridge should be free from tolls if possible, the council stated, but if tolls are found necessary a special minimum toll should be set for farmers and industries of the areas served by the bridge.

Seattle Gives Bahr Rousing Reception

Reindeer Herder, Back From Five-year Arctic Trek For Canadian Government, Is Rather Dazed as He Faces Official Functions

Seattle, April 3.—Epic, phenomenal, heroic.

These are some of the adjectives his fellow citizens were showering on Andrew Bahr, sixty-one, to-day for his five-year feat of driving 2,000 reindeer across Alaska for delivery east of the Mackenzie River delta to agents of the Canadian Government.

"Too hard work," was Andy's own description of it as he donned his brand new suit of clothes and his uncomfortably stiff new shoes and prepared to be the guest of honor at a Knights of the Round Table luncheon.

The squat little Lapp reindeer herder will be an honor guest Friday, too, when the Seattle Chamber of Commerce members council stages an "Andrew Bahr Day" luncheon for him.

Andy turned thumbs down yesterday evening when he was asked to wear his furry parka and mukluks to the festive celebrations.

"If I have to wear my parka, I look like clown, or maybe monkey. You!" he objected, grinning.

Andy seemed just a little dazed by the fuss being made over his home coming, and his only public reaction to news that he had lost his two apartment houses through a $60,000 mortgage foreclosure and a sheriff's sale March 16 was "Maybe I settle on little farm now, yes?"

WANTS TO SETTLE

He said he did not want to go north again and herd reindeer.

"Seattle's my home and I want to live here. But if I have to go north again, I go," he said.

"Come fawning time, the Canadian government will have more reindeer than we started with," he chuckled. "They'll have 1,000 fawn come May. Not bad?

EPIC BACK IN POLITICAL WAR

Associated Press

Los Angeles, April 3.—The End Poverty in California—EPIC—movement, which failed to carry Upton Sinclair, its sponsor, to the governor's mansion as the Democratic nominee in last year's election, found itself back in the political wars to-day as a result of yesterday's city primary election here.

The EPIC forces re-elected Councilman John W. Baumgartner, and apparently succeeded in getting ten councilmen candidates in the fifteen districts placed in the run-off election to be held May 7. Four councilmen were re-elected.

EPIC suffered a heavy defeat, however, in the judgeship race, placing only three of its men, Irvin Taplin, Alfred E. Duncan and William R. McKay, re-elected, of the total of ten. Each of the EPIC candidates had the endorsement of Mr. Sinclair.

Progressives strengthened their position in Wisconsin, as another highlight of elections in various parts of the United States yesterday.

Two more Progressives were elected to the Wisconsin state senate yesterday, bringing the La Follette-led party within one vote of the Democratic majority in a show of force interpreted in some quarters as a vote of confidence in the third party that put Governor Philip La Follette into office three months ago.

CHICAGO ELECTION

A striking display of strength was exhibited by Chicago Democrats, who rolled up 708,150 ballots to retain Mayor Edward J. Kelly at the head of the nation's second city, snowing under Republican Emil Wetten, who gleaned 166,571 votes, and Newton Jenkins, Independent, with 87,788.

TROOPS MOVE IN ETHIOPIA

Forces Sent to Borders of Italian Somaliland and Eritrea

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, April 3.—Ethiopia is moving troops to her frontiers, authoritative sources revealed to-day, to meet what her government regards as a threat from Italy's East African forces.

The Ethiopian detachments were said to be moving in large numbers to the Eritrea and Italian Somaliland borders.

Government sources were quick to explain the activities were solely for defensive purposes. Described as being organized on a more efficient basis than Ethiopia's tribesmen ever before have been, the troops were under strict orders from Emperor Haile Selassie to avoid contact with Italian border garrisons.

Ethiopia has no intention of undertaking an offensive, it was authoritatively explained.

FLAG REPORT DENIED

The government officially denied a report received here from Rome to the effect that an Ethiopian flag had been captured by Italian troops, which the government charges with attacking the Ethiopian escort to the international boundary commission at Ualual several weeks ago.

WAR MATERIALS BOUGHT

Rome, April 3.—Italian military authorities said to-day Italy has been aware for some time that Ethiopia has been massing troops on both the Eritrean and Italian Somaliland frontiers and has made extensive purchases of war materials abroad.

U.S. Bill Would End Big War Profits

A surtax schedule which graduates up to a point where it would take $2,000 of an income of $10,000.

A 94 per cent surtax on all net earnings in excess of $10,000.

Unmarried persons would have an exemption of $400, instead of the $1,000 under the present law. Married persons would have an exemption of $1,000 instead of $2,500, and exemptions of dependents would be cut from $400 under the present law to $100 in the proposed war law.

With the declaration of war, industrial conscription would go into effect, whereby "all persons engaged as officers or directors of a corporation or persons in policy-forming positions in such corporations" would be "inducted into the armed forces of the United States," subject to the President's discretion.

Once inducted, the bill provides, "they will continue to remain with their respective corporations, but will be prohibited from accepting any other compensation than that paid by the army, and shall have rank and compensation appropriate thereto, not exceeding that of brigadier-general."

The measure further provides that "at the will of the government," executives found unwilling to co-operate may be "shifted from the industrial management corps to the combat corps of the army."

FIXING OF PRICES

The plan, drawn up after a long investigation into the munitions industry, provides also that all commodity exchanges would be closed and a commodities control commission provided "to fix the prices of all commodities," and control their sale.

The bill proposes giving the President authority to close securities exchanges and issue rules for any private financing permitted.

Penalties for violation of any anti-profiteering provisions range in the bill as high as fines of $100,000.

Oil Tanker Strike At Ports Of U.S. Is Still At Impasse

Two shots were fired yesterday over the deck of La Brea, discharging cargo at Seattle, but police said they were not from union pickets watching the tanker operations. One man was arrested and charged with shouting epithets at the officer guarding La Brea.

MAN IS ATTACKED

A violent attack on Jake Clark, a logger, late yesterday evening was reported connected with the strike. Clark told Seattle police six men had kidnapped, beaten and shot him, although he denied, in response to their questions, he had been recruiting non-union crews. A bullet grazed his head, and he was also cut and bruised about the body.

The Seamen's Union at Seattle, however, took a peaceful stand. Peter B. Gill, vice-president, declared: "We don't want to precipitate a general strike," and said no appeal would be made to union teamsters to refuse to haul gasoline and oil from the tankers.

CAMPS ARE SHUT

Shortage of fuel oil was reported at Grays Harbor, Wash., and five trucks started continuous service from Willapa Harbor. Some logging camps around Hoquiam, Wash., were reported to have been shut down and others planning to close unless more oil were supplied.

Both picket lines and police forces were augmented at Portland. Strikers yesterday attempted to halt two trucks on the waterfront, but desisted on orders of the police. Future action of the pickets would be decided by a strike committee, C. E. Carter, union business agent, said.

Sufficient gasoline and oil supplies for a week or more were reported on hand at Portland.

Colliery Assets Closely Checked

OPERATING ADVANCES

"There were no assets left for second mortgages," replied Mr. O'Halloran. "That incorporation took place in 1914, when considerable advances had been made to the Collieries for operating purposes.

"Advances had been made," explained Mr. Pagan, "it was more to secure those advances. Shareholders were secured through the operation of the agency sales agreement."

Mr. O'Halloran intimated that the people advancing money in 1910-14 had no security, so that in co-operation with the company, officials had devised a clever scheme to protect their $750,000 advances. The secretary responded that the whole arrangement had been done with the consent of the bondholders.

Mr. O'Halloran also claimed that the Wellington - Comox Agency changed its mode of operation in 1924, and in addition to acting as sole agent for the Canadian Collieries, was depository for depreciation payments and other capital payments, received from disposition of Canadian Collieries assets. This question will be gone into thoroughly, when books are examined at the company office.

Transactions with the Pacific Shipping and Fuel Company of Washington will also be gone into.

Commission counsel traced the growth of the Western Fuel Co., which was incorporated in California in 1908 and was licensed in B.C. the same year.

CAPITALIZATION

This company was capitalized at $1,500,000, of which only $2,500 was paid up in cash.

At this point in the hearing, Mr. Pagan told counsel he did not know the dealings of the Western Fuel Company prior to 1923, but was told statements as far back as 1918.

"From your experience with the company to date, have you any reason to question the statement of the Burns commission, which showed a total expenditure of $1,500,000 by the Western Fuel Company from 1908 to 1913?" was Mr. O'Halloran's next question, but witness was unable to answer.

The stepping up of assets by $2,000,000, from 1914 to 1918, was also discussed by commission counsel. This was partially explained by Mr. Pagan by the sinking of reserve mine shaft, and the building of the railroad to that point, but he was unable to say whether or not this was the entire reason.

"Then who in Nanaimo is familiar with Western Fuel Company affairs from 1913 to 1923?" asked Mr. O'Halloran, which drew an answer that J. Hunt had been connected with them for twenty years, but the secretary doubted if there was anyone familiar with the capital structure.

In May, 1921, the Western Fuel Company was incorporated in B.C. for $6,000,000 but only $850,000 was taken up in shares by June of the following year, leaving liabilities of $5,000,000.

"We may be able to find out in the old records," responded the secretary to counsel's question of whether this large debenture was represented by shares held by California shareholders in the California Western Fuel Company, which went out of existence three days before the incorporation of the B.C. company.

The present Western Fuel Company was incorporated in 1923, by arrangement with the 1921 company. It was disclosed. Capitalization was set at $3,000,000, shareholders of the previous company received twelve shares for one, in the new organization.

One million dollars was paid off the debentures in four or five years, leaving it at $2,000,000 when the Canadian Collieries took over the company in 1928. Then came Mr. O'Halloran's intimation that $1,750,000 was paid for shares for which it was doubtful if any money had ever been paid. The hearing is continuing, and will adjourn to the Canadian Collieries office to-morrow, where records of the Western Fuel Company will be brought out from the vaults for investigation.

tracts which has just been placed before the Ontario Legislature.

The sanctity of contract, the protest says, is in jeopardy, and the proposed act is contended to be discriminatory.

Toronto, April 3.—J. M. Godfrey, K.C., chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, to-day had instructions from Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn to ascertain the names of heavy sellers of power bonds immediately prior to the government announcement of cancellation of Hydro Quebec contracts.

The securities commissioner also was asked to check for any possible leak of confidential information in connection with the government's stand on the Quebec contracts.

Former Attorney-General William H. Price, in the Ontario Legislature, yesterday demanded an investigation of these matters, charging there had been a leak, and that certain insiders knew when to unload bonds of the four Quebec companies involved. The Premier, at the time, denied there could have been a leak, but assured Mr. Price he was prepared to order an investigation.

Ottawa, April 3 (Canadian Press)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, government leader in the Senate, declined to-day in the Upper House to state whether the Dominion would use its power of disallowance of provincial legislation in the case of the Ontario bill declaring power contracts between the Ontario Hydro Commission and four Quebec power companies void and unenforceable.

The question was raised by Senator George Parent, Liberal, Quebec. In the event of the measure introduced by Premier Mitchell Hepburn this week in the Ontario House being passed by the provincial legislature, would the Dominion Government make a recommendation to the Governor-General? he asked.

NEW CABINET IS FORMED IN SPAIN

Madrid, April 3.—Premier-designate Alejandro Lerroux to-day announced he had succeeded in forming a new cabinet. The new line-up is reported to be a minority cabinet.

WIDER PLANS FOR SECURITY

Official circles said the government then will have to figure out a policy for the meeting with Premier Mussolini of Italy and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France at Stresa, Italy.

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, asked the Foreign Secretary in the House to-day to "assure Parliament that no decision will be taken at Stresa which will prevent full and free discussion of the existing political situation of the world at the forthcoming meeting of the council of the League."

Sir John replied: "Nothing which passes at Stresa would prevent full and free discussion of any subject which the League Council will be called on to examine at their forthcoming meeting."

By GEORGE HAMBLETON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 3.—Britain does not regard Adolf Hitler's "peace plans" as adequate.

The feeling in British circles, it was revealed to-day, is that Hitler's schemes as laid before the British ministers in Berlin do not afford any solution for Europe's troubles.

The objections are that, far from offering more security, they do not go even so far as the existing agreements, notably the covenant of the League of Nations, strengthening of which is understood now to be France's immediate aim.

Coincidentally a lot of discussion over the strength of the new German air force brought from Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, the revelation that Hitler told him in Berlin last week the German air force was now equal to that of the British. Previously, this assertion had met with denials.

"In the course of the conversations Herr Hitler stated in general terms that Germany had reached parity with Britain in the air," Sir John told a questioner in the House of Commons. But further questions brought from Sir John nothing more than the assertion that his answer was correct.

EASTERN LOCARNO

Hitler's peace proposals were revealing during discussions on the proposed eastern European security pact—the eastern Locarno to which Germany, and Poland, in a lesser way, objected.

Germany then declared her unwillingness to join either the eastern pact with mutual guarantees, or the central European pact containing a proviso for non-interference in Austria. She was also not prepared to consider returning to the League under present conditions.

Germany proposed, however, a series of bi-lateral non-aggression pacts with her neighbors, except Lithuania. If necessary she was prepared to embody these non-aggression pacts in a single document and couple the pledge of non-aggression with a further pledge not to give economic and financial assistance to an aggressor.

She has already concluded non-aggression pacts with Poland, Russia and Czechoslovakia and all the Baltic states except Lithuania. Under Hitler's scheme this system would be reaffirmed and extended.

AWAIT EDEN'S REPORT

These proposals are to be fully considered here when Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden returns from his tour with contributions from Moscow, Warsaw and Prague. Not until then will the government's policy be definitely determined.

But the point made in British circles is that the German scheme as such carries effective security no further than it already stands. Under the League covenant and the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact, the signatory states pledge themselves not to resort to aggression. If aggression is established, certain clauses of the League covenant comes into play, calling for military sanctions.

The object of the present diplomatic conversations is to extend and strengthen the system of security established by the covenant and non-aggression pacts since will not meet the situation, in the British view.

IN FIFTH PLACE

While Sir John was making his revelation in the House of Commons, Sir Philip Sassoon, under-secretary for air, was engaging in a discussion at a meeting of the League of Nations Union.

Sir Philip said Great Britain was now fifth among the world's air powers, "and if we are content to stay as we are we shall not long remain in front of Germany."

Expanding his theme that Great Britain, to be a useful member of the projected aviation security pact, must be strong in the air, the under-secretary concluded:

"If we are strong still to contend in Europe or elsewhere with such as do build their faith upon the holy test of pike and gun," we must be suitably equipped to do so."

NO ARMS DEBATE

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald again rejected a request the House be afforded opportunity for a debate on the arms situation.

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill asked the Prime Minister whether in view of Sir John's revelation he would provide an opportunity for a debate "on these urgent and serious matters," but Mr. MacDonald said the state of parliamentary business was so pressing that at the moment the government was unable to set aside any special day for discussion.

He suggested the opportunities might arise for questions on motions of adjournment from time to time.

Mr. Churchill said Sir John's statement was a direct contradiction of previous government statements on the relative strength of the British and German air forces, which he had previously challenged, and said special arrangements should be made for the Commons to take stock of the existing situation.

Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, Labor opposition leader, suggested a discussion might be arranged on certain financial votes without providing any special day, and Mr. MacDonald said he would consider this suggestion.

NEW AIR FORCE PLANS IN U.S.

House Military Committee to Hear Suggestions of Leading Fliers

Associated Press

Washington, April 3.—Declaring he wants the United States air force to be the "strongest in the world," Chairman McSwain, Democrat, South Carolina, of the House of Representatives military committee, to-day called aviation notables to a hearing to-morrow on all legislation touching the army air corps thus far submitted to the House.

Foremost among the measures was a bill by McSwain himself that would merge the air corps and the Commerce Department's bureau of air commerce into a new federal "department of air." It has provisions that would more than double the number of army planes authorized and about treble the authorized manpower of the air corps.

Eddie Rickenbacker and James H. Doolittle, renowned fliers, were among those asked to testify.

Another bill to be considered among a dozen or so in the hearings would foster competition in the development and improvement of military aircraft

Nine Are Put To Death in Russia

Associated Press

Moscow, April 3.—Nine robbers and killers were executed by shooting here and at Leningrad yesterday.

The condemned included two motormen who robbed women street car conductors.

The executions were carried out swiftly after the convictions were obtained, as a part of the nation's anti-crime drive. One man executed had slain a guard who intervened while he was stealing sausage and cheese from a restaurant in the Park of Culture and Rest.

DEMONSTRATION AT HANGING

Associated Press

London, April 3. — A naval petty officer who cut a shipmate's throat was hanged yesterday in the Wandsworth jail while two airplanes hired by an anti-capital punishment group, headed by a wealthy widow, circled overhead.

In the street in front of the jail trucks drove back and forth with the strains of "Abide With Me" blaring forth from loud speakers. Sandwichmen distributed handbills.

Petty Officer Leonard Albert Brigstonck was executed for killing Chief Petty Officer Deggan aboard the warship Marshal Soult January 19, at Chatham.

Mrs. Violet Vandervlet organized the demonstration.

Premier Hertzog Has Birthday

South African Cabinet Head Sixty-nine Years Old To-day

Associated Press

Capetown, Union of South Africa, April, 3.—General J. B. M. Hertzog, Prime Minister of South Africa and veteran of many a bitter battle in the military and political fields, is sixty-nine years old to-day.

The event served as a striking reminder that the political leaders who have guided the Union through years of turbulent history since the Boer War are ageing fast and must soon yield to younger blood.

Hertzog's second in command in the Union's fusion government, General Jan Christian Smuts, will be sixty-five next month. Only recently his illness occasioned much alarm in South Africa.

The two national leaders, for twenty years' bitter political foes, are now colleagues in the same party.

TWO LIEUTENANTS

In the coalition ranks two figures stand out as possible heirs to the mantles to be cast off by Hertzog and Smuts. Both are fifty-three years old.

They are Col. Denys Reitz, Minister of Agriculture, and Nicholas Christian Havenga, Finance Minister. Reitz followed Smuts since becoming his lieutenant in the west, while Havenga became Hertzog's aide. Both men were severely wounded in the hostilities with Great Britain.

Reitz reached cabinet rank first, Smuts honoring him in 1921. Havenga came in with Hertzog in 1924. He was named Finance Minister at the age of forty-two.

Both men, however, suffer from handicaps which may prevent them from inheriting Hertzog's post. Havenga's Boer War wounds have undermined his health and fears are felt that he could not endure a long term in office. Reitz, a fighter always, arouses opposition by extreme bluntness and some observers say a trace of dreaminess may prevent him from becoming Prime Minister.

C.N.R. EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

Taxes, rentals and other cash requirements amounted to $5,528,577. Interest on funded debt held by the public was $66,811,748. After provision for tax, rentals and interest, the system had a cash deficit for the year of $48,407,906, a betterment of $10,547,402 as compared with the preceding year.

LOOK FOR IMPROVEMENT

"The Canadian National Railways," the report states, "has obtained its fair share of the additional business available. The patronage given by the public generally is highly gratifying, and we look forward to a continued improvement in the volume of traffic handled. It should be pointed out, however, that the revenues in 1934 were $91,000,000, or $1,750,000 a week less than the average of the ten years 1925-1932 and, while progress was made during 1934, the low volume of business continues to be the greatest adverse factor in our transportation problem. The increase of 11 per cent in gross revenues of the Canadian National Railways compares with an average increase of 5.7 per cent on United States class one railroads."

FREIGHT REVENUES

Freight revenues, the report states, increased by 12.2 per cent. Tonnage increased in every region and in every major group of commodities. Gratifying increases are noted in the movement of automobiles, auto bodies and parts, forest products, paper and pulp, coal and coke. The less-than-average grain crop in western Canada due to drought conditions, grasshopper damage and early frost, brought about a disappointing movement from interior points, the tonnage moved being about the same as in 1933. By rate concessions the railways continued to contribute in substantial measure to the relief of distress in various parts of the Dominion.

UNREGULATED COMPETITION

Activities of unregulated competitors, says the report, have continued and increased. In addition to causing direct loss of traffic, these activities necessitated establishment of water and motor truck competitive rates which seriously affected railway revenues.

PASSENGER INCREASE

Passenger revenue showed an increase of 8.6 per cent, this increase being accomplished with less passenger train mileage than was operated in 1933. Improvement in business conditions generally is given as the cause of this betterment.

EXCURSION GAINS

Low fare excursions were continued co-operatively with the Canadian Pacific with satisfactory results. Reduced fares were continued throughout the year for transportation of unemployed men to and from government relief camps and for the movement of unemployed to farms and settlement areas. As indicative of the low cost of railway travel, the report states the average fare on the Canadian National Railways in 1934 was 2¼ cents a mile.

Because of the greater volume of traffic, operating expenses of the system showed an increase of $9,139,516, or 6.99 per cent, the report states.

Traffic solicitation expenses decreased by 4.26 per cent despite an increase of 11.0 per cent in the total traffic earnings of the railway.

FREIGHT GAINS

There was a continued improvement in freight service operation. The average freight train operated during 1934 was 1,556 gross tons as against 1,512 in 1933.

Dealing with net operating revenue during 1934, the report of the trustees states the increase of $7,269,430, or 44.3 per cent of the increase in gross revenue, may be considered satisfactory. The operating ratio was reduced from 96.16 per cent to 92.14 per cent.

CO-OPERATIVE EFFORTS

After dealing with steps taken to keep down capital expenditures, the report deals with co-operative economies with the Canadian Pacific. Joint approval has been given for the abandonment of 538 miles of functionally duplicate lines, of which 296 were C.N.R. and 242 C.P.R.

Continuing the report states:

"Joint examination of many projects, which superficially appeared capable of yielding co-operative economies, showed the economies to be derived are not commensurate with the capital expenditures necessary to bring them about, or that under present conditions no economy would result."

TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENTS

Studies have also been in progress with regard to the consolidation of the telegraph and express departments of the two companies, the trustees report. Legal difficulties arose in regard to the consolidation of the telegraph properties, while in the case of the express department the report states that "the Canadian National is by no means convinced the maximum economy and convenience to the public would result from such action." Studies are being made to determine whether an internal consolidation of express and less-than-carload freight facilities would not yield greater economies and present a more effective front to highway competition than consolidation of the two express companies.

TRIBUNAL PLAN

Dealing with the question of tribunals, provided for in the 1933 act, to which disputes between the two companies in the matter of co-operative measures should be submitted, the report states one occasion arose during the year when it might have been proper to apply for the intervention of such a tribunal under the chairmanship of the chief commissioner of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada. The trustees felt, however, that in their first year of office, as much ground as possible toward the maximum of co-operation should be covered by the two railway companies without outside intervention and that the results obtained by amicable adjustments of such differences, if such could be obtained, would in the end be better for all parties and for the whole scheme of co-operation than would those which followed a hearing by an order of a tribunal.

Co-operative measures mutually agreed on in 1933 were comparatively free from controversial features, the report states.

OBSOLETE CARS

Dealing with the matter of obsolete equipment, the trustees state they have had under review the advisability of authorizing an exceptional programme of equipment retirements. President S. J. Hungerford has submitted a report to them, calling attention to changed conditions brought about by various factors, including highway competition, the extreme length of the depression, co-operative measures with the Canadian Pacific Railway and more stringent regulations regarding the interchange of cars with other railways, all tending to accelerate the exhaustion of the service life of equipment by reason of obsolescence as distinguished from depreciation or wear and tear. The President has recommended the demolition of a large number of units of rolling stock which will never again be required for service or permitted in interchange with other railroads.

HOTELS GAIN

The trustees note with satisfaction that in 1934 net income from the company's hotel operations improved by $115,000. The operating surplus (total revenue, less expenses and taxes) was $87,017. "This is the first year since consolidation in 1923 that our hotels have produced an operating surplus," the report states.

WAGE LEVELS

Under the heading of wage agreements it is pointed out the combined wage adjustments on the Canadian and United States lines of the system will add more than $5,000,000 to the annual payroll. On January 1, 1935, employees in Canada were restored 3 per cent of the deduction of 15 per cent from basic rates, and arrangements were made for a further restoration of 2 per cent on May 1. Reductions in the salaries of officials remain unchanged.

The report deals at length with the new contributory pension plan placed in effect January 1 of this year.

NEW PENSION OF THE C.N.R.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—The new contributory pensions plan of the Canadian National Railways was explained in the report of the trustees tabled in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. The plan went into effect January 1.

Under this plan service pensions were provided for those who had been in the service of the company for ten years and upwards at the time the plan came into effect, the amount of which was determined by the employee's allowable service up to January 1, 1935, and by the employee's best ten consecutive years' compensation for any period prior to that date.

Employees having less than ten ten years' service at that date and future employees became entitled to a basic pension of $300 a year if the service requirements were fulfilled. The service pension and basic pension are payable entirely at the expense of the company, and the new plan makes provision for supplemental annuities on the basis of voluntary contribution by the employee.

The fund is administered by a board of seven members, of whom four represent the company and three represent the employees, according to the report.

WHEAT DEALS ARE DEBATED

Senate Told If McFarland Could Sell Now Ottawa Would Not Lose

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—Sen. Hon. Arthur Meighen to-day expressed the belief that if wheat holdings of John L. McFarland, under government guarantee, could be sold at present prices in Canada, the federal treasury would not suffer.

The carry-over in Canada of visible wheat at the end of July, the government leader in the Senate understood, would not be more than 1,000,000,000 bushels, not a formidable obstacle and somewhat below normal.

He was not prepared to state the present holdings of McFarland or the amount of existing government guarantees, Senator Meighen told Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, who confessed his "curiosity."

The view of western grain dealers, so far as he had been able to ascertain, was that the obligations entailed by McFarland's operations as head of the pools' central selling agency could not have been avoided and had prevented much suffering, Senator Meighen said.

COMPARED WITH AUSTRALIA

There was no question, he added, that as an operation to maintain prices it had been skilfully managed. The Dominion was in a very happy situation as compared with Australia.

Discussion arose on the relief bill when it was before the Senate banking and commerce committee at a late meeting yesterday. It was rushed out of the committee to the Senate, which had suspended its deliberations for a time to allow the measure to be advanced, and it was given third reading.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY BILL

The Senate gave second reading also to the eight-hour day measure and passed it over to the banking and commerce committee.

It also gave its approval to the resolution for approval of the minimum standard of wages convention initiated in the International Labor Organization at Geneva in 1928.

UNION FORMED BY U.S. PASTORS

Associated Press

New York, April 3.—The pastor may carry union cards—the Ministers' Union of America has approximately 100 members—but there is no danger that the organization will find him picketing the church on Sunday morning.

Although a ministers' strike is unlikely, the organization will assist other unions in strikes which the clergymen believe are justified.

The primary aim of the union is to aid the cause of labor, according to Rev. George Mills, the union's organizer.

Ottawa, April 3 (Canadian Press)—Last year the Canadian National Railways established 2,982 agricultural families on 395,126 acres of land, according to the annual report of the system tabled yesterday in the House of Commons.

During an abnormally high tide in the Thames recently policemen were stationed at a wall in Millbank, England, to be prepared if the water rose over the stones as it did in 1928 to cause a disastrous flood.

TRADE WARNING FROM THE U.S.

Associated Press

Washington, April 3.—To its policy of attempting to revive foreign trade by a series of give-and-take treaties with other countries, the United States has added to-day an open warning it will hit back at nations which discriminate against American goods.

President Roosevelt disclosed the government is studying the question of ending existing trade pacts with Germany, Italy, Denmark and Portugal. As he proclaimed a new reciprocal treaty between Belgium and the United States, the president outlined the foreign trade policy in a letter to Secretary Morgenthau. The president's letter did not go into the details of the "discrimination." Economists long have been noting, however, a multiplicity of devices to channel trade in the modern world—including tariffs, exchange controls, quota systems and sanitary restrictions.

Bella Coola, B.C., April 3.—A brush mattress is being built by the Department of Public Works to protect residents of Hagensborg against a repetition of flood disasters such as were experienced last fall. Work on the mattress, of the type used on the Mississippi protective works, is in charge of George Cathcart of Port Alberni, who is carrying it out according to suggestions of Engineer William Fleming, who died in Bella Coola while surveying the project.

Nearly a hundred men and a fleet of trucks, teams and tractors are employed on the project, which will cost about $20,000.

WOOD BUFFALO FOR MUSEUM

Canadian Press

Edmonton, April 3.—The Canadian National Museum at Ottawa will receive a mounted set of the now nearly extinct wood buffalo from Fort Smith, N.W.T., worth more than $20,000, presented by Harry Snyder, Montreal and Chicago oil man, Dr. George Goodwin, New York, assistant curator of mammals for the American Museum of Natural History, stated on his arrival here yesterday from the north, after a two weeks' hunting trip.

Since the plains buffalo were shipped into the wood buffalo park in 1926, the strains are crossing, and it is now only by obtaining an old animal a true wood buffalo may be secured, the curator explained.

WAR AND PROFITS

UNDER THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF SENator Gerald P. Nye, the special committee of the United States Senate investigating the munitions industry in the neighboring republic has not only not labored in vain, but has brought forth a proposal which is intended to go right to the heart of the war business by taking the profit out of it.

The proposal, which will be introduced in Congress next week, lays down the principle that wartime earnings be limited to 3 per cent and those industrial leaders who were found unwilling to accept this rate of profit, who were found unwilling to "co-operate in the war effort," would be told to go to the trenches instead.

The measure, while pressing heaviest on those who in the last war reported excessive earnings, also would hit the rank and file of workers, since it would make every individual with hope of pay for the cost of the conflict as it proceeded. Industry, however, would pay a 50 per cent tax on net profits on capital investment of 6 per cent or less, and a 100 per cent tax on all net profits in excess of 6 per cent. As applied to individuals, the bill provides for a normal tax of 6 per cent on all earnings above exemptions; a surtax schedule which would graduate up to a point where it would take $2,800 of an income of $10,000; a 94 per cent surtax on all net earnings in excess of $10,000. In the event of another war, therefore, in which the United States might be involved, the Senate committee's plan would put the country on a "pay-as-you-fight" basis.

The exemptions in the case of individuals would be trimmed considerably below those prevailing in the present tax law. For example, unmarried persons would have an exemption of $500, instead of the $1,000 in the present law. Married persons would have an exemption of $1,000, instead of $2,500, and exemptions of dependents would be cut from $400 in the present law to $100 in the proposed war law.

With the declaration of war, industrial conscription would go into effect, whereby "all persons engaged as officers or directors of a corporation or persons in policy-forming positions in such corporations" would be "inducted into the armed forces of the United States" subject to the President's discretion. Once inducted, the bill provides, "they will continue to remain with their respective corporations, but will be prohibited from accepting any other compensation than that paid by the army, and shall have rank and compensation appropriate thereto, not exceeding that of brigadier-general."

It is not necessary to elaborate the provisions of the measure from which we have quoted extracts. They speak for themselves. What may be said, however, is that they are embodied in a proposal which has been specifically designed, after many months of thoughtful study and investigation on the part of the United States Senate committee, to squeeze the last vestige of profit out of war. There is no reason to believe that the fighting forces will quarrel with it, for if it shall be adopted by Congress, they in common with the civil population would at least have the satisfaction of knowing that they would not be exploited by the traffickers in arms.

This proposal now under consideration at Washington, of course, is especially interesting to Canada, not only because it shows the trend of public opinion towards war and war's profits to certain industries, but because it very closely resembles the resolution which Senator Hughes introduced in the Canadian Senate last February. After considerable debate there, however, the resolution was withdrawn, but a useful purpose was served by the large amount of publicity accorded it. Some of the main points of the Hughes resolution were as follows:

(a) That in the opinion of this House, should Canada ever again be at war with one or more nations she shall wage it with every once of her strength in man and material power.

(b) That the declaration of war or the beginning of hostilities shall be followed immediately by the mobilization and the conscription of all the human power and all the material wealth of the nation.

(c) That a War Council representing all the provinces and the government shall be formed and shall have supreme control of all war activities and orders.

(d) That said Council shall have the power to assign every man and woman in Canada to whatever position it thinks they are best qualified to fill, but making as few changes as possible in the daily occupations of the people.

(e) That the wages, salary or income for personal use or retention of no person in the Dominion from the Governor-General down, including the officers of the Army, shall be greater than the pay of the common soldier in the field, plus a reasonable amount for dependents.

(f) That no money be borrowed or debts incurred for the prosecution of the war, or for demobilization.

(g) That all the expenses of the war and of demobilization shall be met by taxation and capital levies, so that at the end of the war and of demobilization the debt of the country would be no larger than it was at the beginning of the war.

While, as already pointed out, this resolution was withdrawn after considerable discussion, it would be safe to say that if it were to be put up to the people of Canada they would vote overwhelmingly in favor of it. The public's attitude, by the way, was reflected in the unanimous vote of the House of Commons on Monday reaffirming this country's staunch adherence to the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy.

A NEW TIMBER PROTEST

THE CANADIAN AND BRITISH GOVernments are still battling over the Anglo-Russian timber contract. Canada won a round recently when she succeeded in persuading the British Board of Trade to eliminate the famous "fall clause"—which provides for an automatic drop in price to meet competition—because it contravened Article 21 of the Canada-United Kingdom trade treaty of 1932.

Yesterday, however, in reply to a question from Captain Peter Macdonald, Nova Scotia-born member of the British House of Commons, Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, said a new complaint had been received from High Commissioner Howard Ferguson against the low price at which lumber from Russia was entering Britain. Captain Macdonald asserted that the net result of the elimination of the "fall clause" was that all Russian timber was arriving 10 per cent cheaper than timber imported from the Dominions. Mr. Runciman said the new protest was "under consideration."

The new contract between Timber Distributors Limited and Russian exporters is for 400,000 standards, or about 800,000,000 feet board measurement, 50,000 standards more than last year's contract, and it represents approximately one-fifth of Great Britain's imports of lumber from outside countries.

Canada is on sound ground, of course, in continually pointing to Article 21 in the trade treaty, the essence of which is protection for her in the British market against what may be deemed to be unfair competition. Her contention is that Russian lumber is produced under state auspices at a price with which she can not successfully compete. Hence her protest against the size of the 1935 order and the inclusion of the "fall clause"—now deleted.

But this is an unfortunate time for Canada to press a new protest with hope of much success. For example, if the contract between the British concern and Russia for 1935 were to be cancelled—this was suggested from Canadian sources at one time—the British treasury would lose $3,500,000 in duties, a risk hardly likely to be taken by a government being pressed for reduction in taxation.

Another factor which enters into the controversy is the recent visit of Mr. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, to Moscow, mainly for the purpose of improving political and economic relations between Britain and Russia. Thus were Britain again to begin haggling over the timber contract—it is worth $30,000,000—it is not difficult to guess what the retort from Moscow would be.

GRAIN FREIGHT RATES

ON EVERY OCCASION WHICH PRESents itself, Mr. Thomas Reid, Liberal member of the House of Commons for New Westminster, pleads for a fairer deal for British Columbia in the matter of freight rates on grain from the prairie provinces. By a vote of sixty-four to forty-five the other day the House threw out his bill to amend the Railway Act which would have forced the desired reduction. Liberal and Farmer members supported him, together with one Conservative, Mr. H. J. Barber of Fraser Valley, while all other government followers opposed his proposal. Mr. Reid, incidentally, also has an appeal pending before the Governor-in-Council from a decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners rejecting an application for lower rates.

Mr. Reid informed the House that the domestic freight rates on grain in the United States were lower than in Canada, and that rates in eastern Canada were lower than those from the prairies to British Columbia. This, of course, is well known, but so far objections to this discrimination against this province have failed to get conditions changed. Mr. Reid, however, still has hope and his pertinacity ought to be rewarded with a better fate than it received the other day.

There is a government "hearing" going on in the United States to determine whether Mr. Andrew Mellon, the great Pennsylvania steel magnate and Secretary of the Treasury in the Hoover administration, owes the government $3,000,000 on income tax account, or whether the government should refund him $139,000 for over-payment. The prospects are that Mellon will have to pay.

---

Mr. F. H. Pickel, Conservative member in the House of Commons for Brome-Missisquoi, described plus-fours yesterday as "knee-high pyjamas." He was discussing the plight of the farmers who could not indulge in the luxury of golf, but that golfers often passed farms dressed in this regalia. Mr. Pickel may not know perhaps that may golfers are really hard-working farmers themselves, that is if the amount of digging some of them do is any criterion.

A WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT

Quietly, a great movement for world peace gets under way. Its progress is the more interesting because not a diplomat nor a Secretary of State has a finger in it, except to try to stop it. That is the investigation of the international traffic in arms, now broadening on a world front.

ONE REASON FOR "FISHING EXPEDITIONS"
The New York Herald Tribune

One of the important reasons why Congressional fishing committees flourish and so many of our statesmen see pink was exemplified recently by Mr. Eugene G. Grace, of the Bethlehem Steel and Shipbuilding companie. In spite of testimony to the effect that the path of Mr. Grace's own patriotism during the war years had to be smoothed with bonuses to the extent of $3,000,000, he still could not conceive of the government's commandeering his plant and drafting him to run it for $10,000 a year in the event of another "emergency." He insisted upon the view that "there is a difference" between drafting manpower and drafting capital. Mr Grace apparently felt it to be all right for the government to draft an individual and confiscate his health or life for $1 a day; but when it came to fortunes he was emphatic that "we should be fairly compensated for the use of private invested capital."

SLEEP—AWAKENING

Sleep is a brief, sweet form of death,
A parting from the earth
Where all is stilled, save the soft-drawn breath
And waking up to birth.
Oh, we die each night for a few brief hours
To morrow to be re-born,
Renewed and refreshed as the spring-time flowers
For the tasks of another morn.
And though man stands watch till the dawn comes on
And a constant vigil keeps,
He never will learn where the soul has gone
When the weary lids drops.
But this we know: To another day,
With the first red streaks of dawn,
To the joys and the cares that line earth's way
We are every one re-born.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST
By ALINE MICHAELIS

HOSPITAL WARD

Happiness flopped in the ward to-day;
Gloomy old place with its walls so grey,
Brimming with memories of pain,
Felt as the cry of Hermione's name
Someone lay on a narrow bed,
Barely able to turn her head,
Moaning and muttering great agony,
Almost glimpsing death's mystery;
Yet, as life's forces came creeping up,
Joy swelled high in her being's cup;
Blind, to lay hold of life again,
Ah, but the ward was lovely then!
Every tall window, so stark and bare,
Had in that beauty its glowing share,
And far beyond it on every side,
Fair lay the world, so bright and wide!
Happiness bloomed in the ward to-day.
Most would have guessed it was bleak and grey.

Sailing Ship Veterans Meet

Half-deck Club of Vancouver Holds Annual Affair And Dines on Ship Fare

Vancouver, April 3.—A score of former shellbacks, who in recent years have been confined largely to the modern luxury ship rather than to the hardening joys of sailing vessels, reverted to type the other evening at the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. They were the members of the Half-deck Club, all former apprentices in sail.

The former sailing-ship men feasted on lobscouse, limejuice, dandyfunk, plum duff, salt horse, sea biscuits and rum. The limejuice was concealed in th more popular beverage.

To Mr. Smith, now a prominent barrister and an authority on marine law, fell the duty of being "Peggy" for the affair. "Peggy," in the days of apprentices in sail, bore on his sturdy shoulders the duty of wearing an apron after meals and sweeping up the crumbs and generally "redding" things up in the half-deck domain.

Dismisses Suit Against Tugboat

Vancouver, April 3.—Capsizing of a scow laden with logging equipment in Nakwakto Rapids March 26, 1933, was an "inevitable accident," Mr. Justice Archer Martin held yesterday in Admiralty Court when he dismissed the suit of Pacific Mills Ltd., against the steam tug Commodore for $34,717.

The scow was diverted by an eddy, grounded on a rock, and, as the tug attempted to haul it off, it capsized. Part of the cargo of two donkey engines and logging equipment was salvaged.

Evidence was submitted that the tides of Nakwakto Rapids are the most dangerous on the Pacific Coast.

BOUQUET FOR SPORTS EDITOR

To the Editor:—On behalf of the Victoria Wednesday Cricket League, I wish to thank you and your sports editor for all the kindnesses extended to us, in the accurate reports of our games, and the write-ups you have given us in regard to them. Wishing your paper every success in the future from the League.

DESECRATION

To the Editor:—One is assailed with feelings of uneasy apprehension and a spasm of horror when driving along one of the island highways, drinking in the exquisite beauty of trees, pines and rocky hills, to suddenly see that beauty descrated by a huge staring tin hoarding blaring out its commonplace, senseless suggestion to "develop your island." Develop how? Hot-dog stands, swings, roundabouts?

Let H. V. Morton speak for us from his book, "In Scotland Again," in describing the beautiful island of Arran:

"This island has had a narrow escape. It might have become so easily a blot on the map of Scotland. If the island had fallen into the clutches of speculators whose idea of beauty is a swing-boat and a full till, then we should have said goodbye to the Isle of Arran. We should have known it only as a place to avoid. All those who love beauty owe gratitude to the owners of Arran for their policy of non-exploitation. Many a hungry eye must have been cast on Arran's fair shores."

Let us insist, at least, that our island's quiet beauty shall not be smirched by these hideous strident posters.

"How hast thou cheapened Paradise!"

FEDERAL ELECTION

To the Editor:—In response to numerous enquiries both written and verbal, may I crave the hospitality of your columns to briefly state my intentions regarding the forthcoming federal election.

I shall stand as a Socialist candidate in the interest of the workers of Victoria, (all kinds of workers) provided support for my candidature is as general as I believe it to be. This can only be tested in the campaign that lies ahead and I hope to make my position perfectly clear at the meetings to be held. I am not being sponsored by any party or group, but I feel confident of adding to the 4,000 votes that were cast for me in the provincial election of 1933.

My views are too well known to need repetition here, but I wish it to be known that in taking this action, I am animated solely by my intense dislike for the foolish hypocrisy which governs most of our lives to-day and the crying need, as I see it anyway, for strong men at Ottawa who will fearlessly and continuously expose the wicked folly of our present economic system and point the way to a happier life.

I do not seek office or honor. When the change has been accomplished, my own task will be done and I will gladly step aside for younger men to consolidate the victory. But for the moment we need fighters and I am not yet on the half pay list. The times are too pregnant with both hope and despair for any more party piffle and machine politics. Every fresh day brings further proof of this. Hoping those who are interested will get in touch with me and thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your courtesy.

CANADIAN RAIL REVENUES FALL

Gross Revenues For January Off 1 Per Cent; Operating Expenses Increase

Ottawa, April 3.—For the first time in more than a year gross operating revenues of Canadian railways showed a decrease for the total for the same month a year previous, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

For January gross revenues amounted to $30,965,206 as against $31,010,510 for January, 1934, the decrease was less than 1 per cent, but operating expenses increased from $19,944,786 to $20,474,779, thus reducing the net revenue by $57,227 and the operating income declined from $616,383 to a debit of $419,348, although freight traffic measured in ton miles increased by 6.3 per cent, freight revenues decreased by $145,200, or 0.9 per cent.

Passenger traffic was heavier than in 1934 by 6.7 per cent and passenger revenues increased by $13,279 or 0.5 per cent. The total pay roll amounted to $13,340,175 as against $12,918,756 for January last year; a restoration of 2 per cent of the 15 per cent cut in basic rates, effective since November 1, 1933, was made on January 1 and a further restoration of 2 per cent is to be made on May 1.

Canadian National Railways showed an increase in gross revenue from $9,865,334 in January, 1934, to $10,015,271 and operating expenses greater by $314,002; the net operating revenue debit of the Canadian lines was reduced from $964,706 to $928,773 and the operating income debit from $1,382,777 to $1,199,889 or an improvement of $82,887. With the exception of the Central Vermont, the United States lines also showed larger gross revenues and the system operating income debit was reduced from $1,399,736 to $1,291,249, or by $108,487.

Canadian Pacific Railway gross revenues declined from $9,954,156 to $9,216,614, a decrease of $737,543 or 8.2 per cent. Operating expenses were reduced by $27,819, the net revenue by $709,928 and the operating income by $684,675, or from $889,989 to $204,312. Freight traffic was lighter by 12.1 per cent, but passenger traffic increased by 6.5 per cent, although passenger revenue declined by 3.2 per cent, or $37,900, due to a lower average receipt per passenger mile. The total pay roll was increased from $8,600,514 to $8,278,026, or by 3.6 per cent, and the number of employees declined from 46,740 to 45,826, or by 2.6 per cent.

Seaman Did Work With Broken Back

San Francisco, April 3.—Eric Edman, radio operator on the Johnson Line motorship Balboa, worked fourteen days with his back broken, it was revealed to-day as he lay in a hospital, encased in a plaster cast.

Edman plunged into the ship's empty swimming pool March 1 in Panama Bay. He landed on the bottom of the tank. Semi-conscious, he climbed out and crawled to his bunk. A day or so later, he resumed his work, taking opiates to relieve a constant pain in his back.

The Balboa docked here March 15 and Edman consulted a doctor. He was told that he had been dangerously near death. Had he turned his head sharply, his spinal cord probably would have snapped.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Raring to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks black, if you have a lot of pain, take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills that night and next morning you will be glad you did. They act on the liver as no pill can. They don't just move the bowels like ordinary cathartics. They should start the liver bile flowing so that the bowels can move easily of themselves. That's how they relieve constipation.

Big thing about these pills is their gentleness. They are so mild and gentle you hardly know you've taken a pill. But they are sure! Nothing else quite like them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Insist on genuine. Refuse substitutes. 25 cents. ©1935 C.M. Co.

Stories in STAMPS

The Tomb of Lenin—at Moscow

No country ever before glorified a man in postage as has Soviet Russia in one of its latest issues. Usually a country's hero is portrayed on one particular stamp, but Nicolai Lenin, former dictator of Russia, is presented in a series of six stamps on the tenth anniversary of his death. These stamps reveal six stages of the man's life, from childhood up, ending with one illustrating both Lenin and Stalin, his successor.

The U.S.S.R. has named this issue "Ten Years Without Lenin," commemorating the decennial of the man's death in 1924. During his dictatorship Lenin had refused to permit his portrait on a postage stamp.

SOVIETS SHIP ORE TO COAST

Tacoma Smelter Handles Giant Gold Reserves Built Up in U.S. By Russia

Associated Press

Tacoma, April 3.—Soviet Russia, building up a vast gold reserve in the United States, has started spring shipments of auriferous ore to the giant smelter here, which poured out "pigs" of gold, silver and copper to help the land of Stalin.

The smelter at Ruston, a plant of the American Smelting and Refining Company, is a haven for Russian ore because it is the only smelter on Pacific Coast tidewater, and is said to be particularly adapted for reduction of Soviet minerals.

In continuation of the Soviet policy of building up financial reserves in America despite difficulties that followed preliminary recognition, and failure of trade negotiations, the Soviets send ships on these 15,000-mile journeys with gold ore because there are only three smelters on the Pacific Coast, one in Chile and one at Granby, B.C., the other at Tacoma. The Tacoma plant employs some 800 men, purchases supplies averaging $2,500,000 a year, put out 550,000 ounces of gold and silver a month.

"It is possible that during 1935 the Soviet will ship 100,000 tons of ore, worth seven million dollars to Tacoma," said S. L. Bair, chemical engineer and agent of Amtorg Trading Company of Russia, in an interview in which he emphasized that Russia is opening its gold mines as fast as possible.

PARASITES AID AGAINST PESTS

W. Downs, Provincial Entomologist, Tells How to Control Insects

Pointing out that parasites were one of the chief aids of man in his constant battle against the insect menace, W. Downs, Provincial Entomologist, gave an interesting lecture on plant pests before 150 members of the Victoria Horticultural Society in the City Hall, yesterday evening.

"We pride ourselves in Victoria on our lovely gardens," Mr. Downs said. "But, probably due to our mild climate, we are getting an unenviable reputation for insects. Victoria is the only place in Canada where earwigs are serious. Unfortunately, the cold snap this year did not have the desired effect on them, and they are found to be wriggling around in great numbers now."

The Provincial Entomologist declared that the Department of Agriculture had imported parasites which would control the earwig. The parasite was a small fly—somewhat like a house fly, but without the latter's bad habits. This fly laid live larvae wherever it could smell an earwig.

The parasite would not exterminate the earwig, but where it had been tried out in other countries it had materially reduced its numbers. However, Mr. Downs could not promise any respite from the earwig for five years—the length of time the parasite would take to have any real effect—and he advised gardeners to continue using poisoned bait.

POISON BAIT HARMLESS

"Poison bait is quite harmless to anything but earwigs," he said. "And all this talk you hear of dogs dying from eating it is just sheer nonsense. The bait is sodium fluoride which is a slow poison, and the earwigs crawl into their holes to die, that is why you never see any dead earwigs around the garden. On animals and human beings the bait causes violent vomiting which immediately rids the system of the poison."

Mr. Downs said that he was bringing in a parasite to fight the codling moth which was a serious menace in orchards on the island. He also hoped to have a parasite to control the tent caterpillar.

There were two distinct types of insect pests, the entomologist noted, the sucking insect and the biting insect. The sucking insect penetrated the stem of a plant and sucked the juice out. It could be controlled by a contact insecticide which coated its body with poison. The insect breathed the fumes of the poison through the pores in its body and died.

The biting insect which literally ate the leaves had to be destroyed by a stomach poison, usually arsenic.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Downs showed slides of various common insect pests. The narcissus fly which caused so much grief among Victoria gardeners was about the size of the bumble bee. Its grub did the damage by eating into the bulb.

APHIS EGGS

Masses of aphis eggs like shiny black seeds hanging on to the stalk of a plant were shown. The white spots of the rose scale, the grubs of the strawberry weevil, the June bug, and many other of the gardener's foes appeared greatly magnified on the screen.

"There are just as many useful insects as destructive," Mr. Downs said. "Nature always provides a control for every pest. Among these tiny creatures it is a dog-eat-dog life, with one constantly preying on another."

By means of slides he showed insects which attached earwigs, flies which ate up aphis, and tiny wasps which preyed on caterpillars and cutworms.

Concerning the leaf-cutting bee, the speaker drew attention to the Bible quotation: "Go to the ant thou sluggard and follow his ways." If the prophet had been an entomologist, he said, he would have known better, for the ant was lazy compared with this bee which cut hundreds of pieces of leaf to build its cell. Even then the insect could lay no more eggs it went on cutting leaves, filling up end holes and cracks, until it died of exhaustion.

QUEEN CANDIDATE

Before the lecture R. M. Whyte introduced Bob Smith of radio fame to the audience. Mr. Smith spoke on behalf of Lilian Grant, candidate for the island's beauty queen, pointing out that Miss Grant had helped out in many entertainments ever since she was eight years old. Miss Grant, looking very sweet in a Highland costume, also addressed the audience.

At the close of the meeting F. B. Leighton reminded the society of the spring flower show, which was to be held on April 26 and 27 at the end of the annual Garden Festival Week.

The winners for the society's monthly competition were: Narcissi, 1 Mrs. E. W. Darvis, 2 A. M. Scott; rhubarb, 1 A. M. Scott, 2 T. Wallace. New exhibition competition: 1 James Waddell, 2 W. R. Tagetshot.

OATMEAL RICH IN VITAMIN B

It has recently been discovered that oatmeal is rich in Vitamin B, the nerve-nourishing, appetite-stimulating, digestion-aiding vitamin. Scientists claim that this is one of the most important food discoveries in years as Vitamin B is vitally important to health, growth and physical development. Doctors have found that nervousness, poor appetite and constipation occur when the diet lacks this element which nature has now been found to store so abundantly in rolled oats.

In a feeding test of two hundred small children, under the supervision of two famous scientists, one hundred children were fed ordinary milk diets. The other were fed a diet containing a known amount of Vitamin B and at the conclusion of the test the latter group were entirely free from constipation, showed greater increase in weight, a more rapid physical development, better appetites and infections were much less common.

The importance of this discovery of a high Vitamin B content in rolled oats cannot be over emphasized because it is claimed that not more than thirty-six hours' supply of Vitamin B can be stored in the body at any one time and must be replenished at regular intervals. Fortunately, owing to the economy of rolled oats as a food, the advantages of Vitamin B, which is really nature's great protective food, are available to everyone.

Cowichan Branch Canadian Legion

Duncan, April 3.—At its monthly meeting Monday evening the Cowichan branch of the Canadian Legion decided to give the peace movement film, "Lest We Forget," sponsored by the Canadian Legion, every support.

Correspondence included a circular from Dominion headquarters asking for information as to the amount of receipts and disbursements for pamphlet purposes, for relief work. The figures submitted by the treasurer in response to this astonished the meeting, as for the five years of the depression over $9,000 was disbursed for relief purposes by the Cowichan Branch of the Legion. This money would have had to come from the ratepayers had it not been for the administration of the Legion.

It was reported that further accommodation had been provided for the library, over 500 volumes having been issued free to members during the last twelve months. Donations of books will be appreciated.

The meeting appointed the president as their representative to meet Mayor Prevost and the reeve, with others, to consult on the programme being drawn up for May 6. Arrangements so far include a gymkhana and children's sports.

The meeting passed a resolution to the effect that the Cowichan branch of the Canadian Legion express its sincere loyalty to the memory of the late Lord Haig, and view with regret and condemnation the recent attacks made by Mr. Lloyd George, and that copies of the resolution be sent to the B.C. Provincial Command, the headquarters of the B.E.S.L. in London, to Lady Haig and to Mr. Lloyd George.

SOCIETY IS FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING

The Victoria Horticultural Society with over 275 members went on record as being in favour of daylight saving at a meeting in the City Hall, yesterday evening.

The subject was brought up when the secretary, F. E. Beckley read a request from Ernest Manshan that the society take a standing on this question. A slight debate ensued, and the president, Horace Whitcomb put the motion to a show of hands.

The vote was greatly in favor of changing the hour.

C.C.F. Speaker Decries System

Capitalism Is Failure, Says Miss Mildred Osterhout

Capitalism should be discarded because under this system "one can only advance by advancing on the backs of our fellow beings," Miss Mildred Osterhout of Vancouver told a C.C.F. audience in their Fort Street headquarters Monday night.

Under a Socialist system, she argued, a condition would not exist where "the harder we work, the sooner we put ourselves out of a job."

Capitalism was plainly demonstrated, she said, that it could not provide the material necessities for the average man. It must be abolished.

The speaker reviewed various abuses of the capitalist system, declaring they would be done away with under Socialism. For instance, she declared, the inequalities in the ranks of the unemployed would never be allowed to exist under the C.C.F.

BREWERS AND DISTILLERS

Vancouver, April 3 (Canadia Press).—Net profit of $169,517.29 for the year ended December 31, 1934, is shown in the annual report of Breweries and Distillers of Vancouver Limited and wholly owned subsidiaries.

Total earnings for the year were $626,232.26. Allowance for depreciation, bad debts, bank interest, directors' fees and provision for Dominion and provincial income taxes amounted to $356,816.09.

The report stated that efforts to market aged whiskies in the United States for blending purposes had been disappointing. Arrangements to supply United States distillers with such whiskies had been made, but subsequently fell through, due to the fact the American distillers were unwilling to finance the heavy cash outlay in import duties and revenue taxes.

In three years, Hsinking, the capital of Manchukuo, has increased from a small railway junction to a city of 150,000 people and has wide streets, office buildings, airport, good quarters for troops and many modern conveniences.

FORESTS BRING OVER $2,500,000

Increase Last Year Was $500,000 Due to Larger Production

British Columbia forests returned $2,521,540 direct to the provincial government in revenue last year, according to forest branch reports just issued.

This was an increase of more than $500,000 over 1933, the increase being general in all branches. Timber license rentals were up from $331,-949 to $402,816. Royalty and taxes were up from $802,511 to $1,155,502. Stumpage receipts were up from $264,325 to $390,702.

The total revenue was the highest since 1931, when it reached $2,-972,997.

The increased revenue was a reflection of the larger lumber production, which was up from 1,803,000,000 feet to 2,214,000,000 feet.

P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester, in his annual report, draws particular attention to the work done in trade extension work, declaring "British Columbia has reached the premier position in timber exports from the Pacific Coast."

As a result of activity in this connection, he declares, B.C.'s share of the total export of lumber from the coast region to the Australian market rose from 19 per cent in 1929 to 29 per cent in 1934; to the United Kingdom from 20 per cent to 33 per cent; to China from 11 to 34 per cent, and the total shipments to overseas markets from 26 to 34 per cent.

Six new forest reserves were set aside last year, covering a total of 2,175 square miles. Three former reserves in the railway belt were cancelled, having been found to be of little value for production of commercial timber.

NO NEW PARKS TRUCK ORDERED

No new truck will be purchased for the parks department this year if the recommendation of the parks committee to the City Council is adopted.

Yesterday afternoon the committee moved against the purchase of the truck, which would have cost the city in the neighborhood of $850, and recommended the old truck now in use be repaired.

The committee also decided to recommend to the council that cleared property across the road from Macdonald Park be planted in shrubs to furnish a small park.

Arrangements for another tree planting ceremony by Lord Baden-Powell on April 13 were completed at the meeting.

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and goodness.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Dr. Alban Girault, the French Specialist, says: "Almost unbelievable how well it works!"

Dr. Girault (at right) has been chief of clinic of the Paris Faculty of Medicine—is a leading member of distinguished medical societies. He says of this new yeast:

"I was amazed at its results when used on large numbers of patients. Instead of acting harshly and temporarily as cathartics do, it stimulates secretion of digestive juices and restores bowel action naturally...It is a notable discovery."

IN important hospitals, astonishing results are being obtained with the new Fleischmann's Yeast: 93% of constipation cases corrected in one clinic; 83% of indigestion cases relieved in another; 89% of skin cases of digestive origin in another. Typical cases from one hospital's actual records are:—

CASE OF Y. E. MAN, AGE 38. Suffered from chronic constipation. Used strong cathartics habitually. Tongue coated. Showed obvious symptoms of autointoxication from bowel wastes.

Eating the new Fleischmann's Yeast daily gave improvement by the end of the first week of the treatment. Easier bowel movements daily without laxatives. Felt better.

CASE OF K. M. MAN, AGE 42. Had used strong cathartics and enemas for chronic constipation for 10 years. Discomfort from gas. Pale, weak. Was on a special diet.

Treatment with Fleischmann's new Yeast improved his digestion. Patient was able to discontinue cathartics and enemas as a result. Feels better. No discomfort from gas. Now has natural daily bowel movements.

CASE OF K. G. WOMAN, AGE 31. Had used strong cathartics for chronic constipation for years. Appetite poor. Frequent headaches. Very nervous. Complained of abdominal heaviness.

After eating Fleischmann's new Yeast, appetite improved. After one week, had daily movements without cathartics. No more headaches. Nervousness relieved, no more discomfort from gas.

Completely corrected by this new discovery...chronic CASES OF CONSTIPATION

A new food supplies "Protective Substances" stomach and bowels need to work properly. No other food, even fruits and vegetables, supplies enough of them!

IT is a fact that hospitals are now correcting even stubborn cases of constipation—simply by adding one food to the diet!

For some time it has been known that "protective substances" were needed in the diet for the stomach and bowels to work properly. When these "protective substances" are undersupplied—digestion slows up, people become constipated.

But one food now supplies them in abundance. This food is the new Fleischmann's Yeast—their richest source!

This new Fleischmann's Yeast builds up a healthier condition of the whole intestinal tract. As soon as it reaches the stomach, it starts an increased flow of digestive juices. It tones and strengthens nerves and muscles all through your intestines. Digestion improves. Bowels work better. The skin clears. Energy increases.

Begin to eat the new Fleischmann's Yeast. Eat it regularly—don't stop when you begin to feel better, but go on eating it! Do this for your own health.

THIS IS THE WAY YOU SHOULD EAT IT:

Eat 2 or 3 cakes of the new Fleischmann's fresh Yeast each day. People vary in the amount they need—some eat 4 or even 5 cakes a day, although 3 cakes daily are usually enough. A little experimenting will show you just the amount you need.

Eat it fresh plain, or dissolved in ½ glassful of water . . . or in milk, fruit juices or favorite drinks. Or spread on a cracker.

THE NEW FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST is a food—not a medicine. Eaten regularly, it can make and keep your bowels completely "regular."

strengthens your digestive system, you can stop using laxatives and cathartics entirely.

TO THE MEDICAL PROFESSION:

In recent tests, Fleischmann's new Yeast increased gastric acidity up to 300% (needed to stimulate "sluggish stomachs"); increased gastric emptying and motility measurably.

Its most important substance resembles a digestive hormone. It also supplies four vitamins: Vitamin A, for health of epithelial tissue, B for proper nerve functioning, G for growth, and D to aid in assimilation of lime.

Constipation may be serious, especially if due to an organic disorder. To be safe, see a doctor.

QUEEN RACE UNDER WAY

Eighteen Candidates Battling For May 24 Island Crown

The Island Queen Contest in connection with the twenty-fourth of May celebrations is well under way. The stage is all set and one of the prettiest races in which fair humanity struggled for a crown is on.

Eighteen of Victoria's fairest daughters are putting forth great effort for supremacy in the struggle for regal honors. From to-day forward, friends of each candidate will be busy with their ballots and the hard work of the campaign has just begun.

At 10.00 a.m. Monday, headquarters at 1216 Government Street presented a hectic scene where the candidates and their campaign managers milled around in their efforts to obtain the requisite number of voting ballots. As the campaign opened there were eighteen candidates in the field, sixteen named and two last-minute entries, dark horses; in other words, the sponsors, while entering a candidate, refused to give the name until a later date. But both organizations were emphatic in their belief that when the smoke is all cleared away, they will be well up at the top of the poll.

List of candidates to date: Loyal Order of Moose, Miss Nancy White; Victory Roller Rink, Miss Barbara Allen; Junior Musical Arts, Miss Helen Dickenden; Maccabees, Miss Dora Lewis; Fraternal Order of Eagles, Miss Frances Mary Clarke; I.O.D.E., (Royal Bride Chapter), Miss Catherine Craig; Trades and Labor, Miss Evelyn Hill; Avalon Beauty Parlor, Miss Betty Cosh; Burns and other Scottish Organizations, Miss Lillian Grant; Rhone Gil, Miss Patricia Petherbridge; Welsh Club, Miss Helen Thomas; Beauceron Club, Miss Jean Gray; P. & T. Chemical Company, Miss Barbara Pollard; Victoria Civic Employees, Miss Vera Sinclair; Blue Line, Miss Joanne Osgood; National System of Baking, Miss Susan Orr.

Lake Hill Community and Beaux-Arts have not as yet given the names of their candidates.

Britannia W.A.—A daffodil tea and home cooking will be held in the club rooms of the W.A. to Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, 715 View Street, to-morrow, from 2.30 till 5.30 o'clock. Teacup reading and househouse will be features of the afternoon. A hearty welcome is extended to all members and their friends, also sister auxiliaries.

Native Daughters—The members of the Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, holding tickets for the luncheon to be held on Saturday, April 6, at the Hudson's Bay dining-room, are asked to communicate with Mrs. J. A. Lorimer, G 3049, not later than Thursday, April 4, and report on the sale of their tickets.

Bessboroughs At Dramalogue

Their Excellencies Attend Production of "On Approval" at Empress Hotel

The dramalogue, which was so popular in Victoria some years ago was revived yesterday evening at the Empress Hotel, when, in the distinguished presence of Their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Countess Bessborough and in aid of the King George Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund, Frederick Lonsdale's brilliant play, "On Approval," was read by a splendidly chosen cast.

Coming on from a dinner party at Government House, the Earl and Countess and their party reached the hotel at 8.45 o'clock, when the performance started. They were welcomed in the Elizabethan Room by Mrs. Walter C. Nichol, Mrs. R. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, Mrs. Forde, Mrs. G. Denbigh and other officers of the Gonzales Chapter I.O.D.E., under whose auspices the dramalogue was given and by Major L. Bullock-Webster, the producer. In the party with Their Excellencies were Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Rickard, Mr. W. J. Spencer and Mrs. G. C. Jones.

The cast was brilliantly chosen, Mrs. Hebden Gillespie, possibly, reading the role of Maria Wislack, a middle-aged lady posing to be young and rather risque, being outstanding. Mrs. F. G. Aldous as Helen Hale, was also splendid, as were the readers of both male parts, Colonel H. V. Goodland, handling the role of Richard, and L. Bullock-Webster that of the Duke of Bristol. Miss Laura Dunsmuir made a capable discuse.

Following the performance Their Excellencies, informally greeted the members of the cast, expressing their appreciation of an enjoyable evening and thanking them for their contribution towards the Cancer Fund.

There was a regrettably small audience, but the entire proceeds of the dramalogue will be turned over to the Cancer Fund as the copyright was waived by the kindess of Miss Mona Coxwell, Canadian manager of the French Company, and the ballroom kindly donated by J. K. Hodges, manager of the Empress Hotel.

HOME FOR AGED WOMEN IS FULL

The committee of the Aged Women's Home met yesterday afternoon, Mrs. W. L. Clay, the president, in the chair.

Members present were: Mesdames W. Grant, F. W. Vincent, S. Leiser, E. Beedle, H. Grant, D. C. Sabiston, A. D. Whittier and Miss E. O'Brien.

The regular routine business was attended to and all accounts incurred for the month ordered paid. The secretary reported receiving several more applications last month, but had to reply that the home was completely filled.

The matron reported that the housecleaning was progressing nicely and the general health of the inmates was good. The committee for the month will be Miss E. O'Brien, convener, Mrs. W. Grant and Mrs. D. C. Sabiston.

A donation of books was received from Mrs. Leslie of Selkirk Avenue. Twenty of the inmates attended the concert in the Royal Victoria Theatre on March 18, which was sponsored by the Young People's Society of the Catholic Church.

W.I. Busy On Peace Garden

By ELIZABETH BAILEY PRICE

One of the major projects of the Women's Institutes of British Columbia this spring highest active interest in a national W.I. objective, which is the Women's Institute plot in the International Peace Garden. This is located on the centre of this continent, on the international boundary line between Manitoba and North Dakota. Mrs. H. McGregor, Penticton, first vice-president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, is in charge of this work in this province, and is arranging that the money raised here be spent in British Columbia nurseries, the plants to be shipped in time for spring planting. Institutes are urged to lose no time in sending their cash contributions to her.

ORIGIN OF W.I.

The Women's Institute idea, which is based on the organisation of rural and urban women by governments, for the purpose of home betterment, was originated twenty-eight years ago, by the late Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless of Hamilton, Stoney Creek being the first branch. It was taken up by British Columbia in 1909, the provincial department of agriculture "borrowing" Miss Laura Rose, a popular organizer and lecturer on home topics, from Ontario, to explain the idea to the country women here. To-day there are 161 branches, with an approximate membership of 4,500, these located in the most remote valleys, islands and districts of this province.

Not only did the idea spread like a prairie fire throughout Canada, but it became imperial. In 1915, Mrs. Alfred Watt, a Victoria woman, took the idea to England, where there are now over 5,000 branches, completely revolutionizing rural life. It has become international, for there are Women's Institutes or similar organizations in over thirty countries. And it is still spreading, to India, China and Japan. In those countries where it is established, it is known as "Canada's gift to the country women of the world."

PEACE RIVER INVESTITES

There are twenty-one Women's Institutes in the British Columbia Peace River block. The present major activity these months is the arranging of dental clinics, whereby the te[illegible] of both adults and children are [illegible] much-needed attention. [illegible] Institutes are making a val[illegible] struggle to raise the cash in [illegible] country, where there is so little r[illegible] money, and are being assisted by [illegible] Canadian Dental Hygiene Associat[illegible] While some of the work is slow [illegible] completed, the greater part is [illegible] held over until the weather m[illegible] and the roads become more [illegible]

Another work of intense interest [illegible] the use of raw wool, these [illegible] pioneer women being only too anxious to find some meth[illegible] of clothing their families cheap[illegible] and warmly and supplying the [illegible] needed bed coverings. Hence[illegible] have reverted to the days of c[illegible] spinning and weaving. The Wo[illegible] Institute department at the [illegible] Buildings is besieged w[illegible] requests for books to show [illegible] to build hand looms, make sa[illegible] shuttles, etc. At Dragon Lake wo[illegible] man invented a form of spin[illegible] for herself. Other women have [illegible] mented in dyeing, using lo[illegible] and lichens.

WOMAN JUDGE RETIRING SOON

Canadian Press

Regina, April 3.—Judge Ethel MacLachlan, first woman judge in Saskatchewan, retiring at the end of this month, yesterday recounted some experiences of her twenty-five years as juvenile judge. She said she held court in almost any handy place, stations, garages and theatres being numerous, and also in the open, with her automobile as judge's rostrum.

Central W.C.T.U.—The Easter meeting of the Central W.C.T.U. will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Y.W.C.A. All members are urged to attend.

THIS DIXIE PRINCESS REALLY IS TWINS

A princess who is twins will grace the throne of Memphis' great annual cotton carnival and that is a fact, not a joke. The throngs attending the fete, May 6 to 11, will see both Jean Boyer, left, and June Boyer, right, wearing the crown, but they will never know which is which, as the twins' own friends cannot tell them apart. One of them was chosen for the honor, but she refused unless her sister could share it. The solution was easy, as a look at the pictures will prove.

Governor-General Visits Patients At Solarium

His Excellency Shows Interest in Splendid Work Among Crippled Children; Miss Audrey Alexander Brown Is Presented

The Governor-General showed his deep interest in the humanitarian work of the Queen Alexandra Solarium yesterday afternoon by paying an informal visit to the institution at Mill Bay, and delighted the little patients by asking for a half-holiday from school for them.

His Excellency, who was accompanied by Capt. D. Fisher-Rose, A.D.C., reached the Solarium at 2.45 o'clock, and was received by Dr. Cyril Wace, medical superintendent; Miss R. A. Stone, lady superintendent; J. W. Hudson, representing the board of directors; the two nursing supervisors, Miss P. Whiteman and Miss J. Gibson, and the other members of the nursing staff.

A tour of inspection was made of the wards, including the new Shrine units, His Excellency shaking hands with many of the little patients and inquiring their names, to which they answered with promptitude. The Scouts responded in customary fashion by shaking hands with the left hand.

Miss Audrey Alexandra Brown, gifted authoress of "Dryad of Manaimo" and other charming poems, was presented to His Excellency, who chatted with her for several minutes on her writing, and also inquired about her work at the Solarium.

The Governor-General showed much interest in the exhibition of schoolwork, including drawing and painting, the details of which were explained by the teacher, Miss M. Budd. His Excellency noted the beautiful view from the sun-deck in front of the Solarium, and commented that this would make an interesting subject for those of the children who could paint.

The curative work of the institution also evoked much commendation from the distinguished visitor, who learned from Dr. Wace of the beneficial results being achieved among little cripples of all races and creeds.

Regret was expressed that owing to indisposition Her Excellency had been unable to make the trip to the Solarium. The announcement that a half-holiday had been declared was received by the children with prolonged cheering.

Young People's Church Societies

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A.

Dean Quainton presented a talk to the members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening, and took as his topic, "Some Thoughts on Liberty." A quotation of a great French philosopher, "Man is born to be free, but everywhere we find him in chains," served as the main feature. The Dean gave splendid illustrations of the "chains" which bind men.

Some amusing incidents were taken from the play, "Eliza Comes to Stay," emphasizing again the "chains." Following the address an interesting discussion took place, when it was urged to put selfishness out of our lives and try to live more for Christ.

Stanley Cooper presided at the business session. A satisfactory report of the play was given. It was decided to hold a corporate communion on Good Friday at 8 o'clock, to be followed by breakfast in the A.Y.P.A. room, after which a hike to Thetis Lake will take place.

On Sunday, April 7, the regular corporate Communion will take place, followed by breakfast.

A practice for the play will be held on April 8, instead of the regular meeting.

KNOX Y.P.S.

On Monday evening the Knox Y.P.S. held their usual weekly meeting in the church. The meeting opened with a hymn and Rev. J. S. Patterson gave the prayer. Mr. Charlie Coutlee read the Scripture from Psalm xiii. Before the business meeting a short address was given by Rev. J. S. Patterson. During the meeting the young people planned a daffodil tea, to be held in the church on Monday evening, April 15, at 8 o'clock. The meeting closed with a hymn and a prayer. The society will meet again next Monday at 8 o'clock.

CULBERTSONS RETAIN LEAD

The Sims Find That Aces and Kings May Mean Little Help

Associated Press

New York, April 3.—P. Hal Sims is almost ready to believe that aces and kings are not so very important in the great game of contract bridge.

At the end of fifty-nine rubbers in the 150-rubber bridge match between Hal and Dorothy Sims and Ely and Josephine Culbertson, the Culbertsons are leading by 11,340 points, yet the honor count shows them trailing in the number of aces and kings.

The count shows the Sims leading in aces, 748 to 735, and in kings, 753 to 716. The Culbertsons have held more queens, 764 to 704.

The Culbertsons had virtually everything their own way in two short sessions yesterday afternoon and last night, almost doubling their previous lead of 5,940 points. They won six of the seven rubbers played, climaxing their streak by taking the last rubber of the night by a margin of 2,010 points. Their present lead of 11,340 is the largest they have held since the match began last week. The Sims have been in the lead only once—at the close of the first night's play.

The Culbertsons have now won thirty-five rubbers and the Sims twenty-four. The point score stands 54,160 to 42,820.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The solicitous mother of one child finds it difficult to manufacture the opportunities to offer the child practice in independence. With only one child to dress, feed and care for, the mother is inclined to do everything for the child and be annoyed when the child wants to do for himself.

The mother of several children has exactly the opposite problem. She is inclined to force independence on the child too early. And the results and the dissatisfactions of too early independence may be as unhappy as too little.

CHILD NEEDS SUCCESS

When the child needs new situations he should enjoy a measure of success with them. He should be able to button some of the buttons, get his clothes off, if not get all of them on, be able to carry some dishes, find some objects for which he has been sent.

In a word, his efforts toward independent doing must have the reward of success so that he is pleased with himself and wants more opportunities for being a "big" boy, a "helpful" boy, a "smart" boy. In such ways we lead a child toward independence gradually and pleasurably.

SOME LIKE IT

Some children (not all, for some children never get too much of them) wilt under early responsibilities, because they are still too young to be successful in their ventures.

We cannot make a bold adventurer out of a little tot. If, shouldered with the responsibility of getting himself to school safely, he has too many unpleasant and terrifying experiences with traffic, he becomes an errant coward. He is too young for this sort of independence and it sours him against other independent activities.

REVERT TO INFANCY

The small child who is forced to make all his own decisions—who is always told, "Now you decide what clothes to wear," may revert to infantile behavior (bed wetting, soiling clothes, thumb sucking), thus indicating that he is too young to be bearing such burdens.

Independence to be enjoyed and embraced hearteningly must arise from experiences which are pleasurable and successful. Thus each new experience met independently in an incentive toward assuming another and more difficult one.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon both expressed thanks for the unexpected gift. During the evening Mrs. A. S. Mrs. Woollard fittingly thanked all present for their kindness. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

BLOW AT HIGH WEDDING COSTS

Chinese Mayor Unites Fifty-seven Couples at Single Ceremony

Associated Press

Shanghai, April 3.—The Chinese government to-day delivered a telling blow at the high cost of weddings when fifty-seven couples marched to the altar together and were married in a simple ceremony, with General Wu Teh-chen, mayor of Shanghai, officiating.

Aimed at setting an example of economy to the nation in accordance with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's "new life" movement, the ceremony was devoid of all the frills and extravagance characterizing the traditional Chinese wedding.

The traditional wedding vows to heaven, earth and ancestors were dispensed with and each marriage was completed in two minutes. The government charged each couple the equivalent of seven American dollars for the ceremony, the price including the certificate and a gift to the bride, shirts. He described them as "tiny the customary expensive Chinese wedding which often throws the couple into debt for life.

All those married to-day had been carefully examined by authorities before they were permitted to marry. These examinations included investigations of the applicants' physical, financial and moral capacities. All prospective bridegrooms were required to have jobs.

Group B. Met—Group B. of the W.A. of First Church met at the home of Mrs. A. S. Christie, Richardson Street, Monday, with Mrs. J. B. Munro presiding. After devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. S. R. Macdonald, B. A. McKelvie, managing editor of The Colonist, gave a most interesting and instructive address on the early history of Vancouver Island. Following the meeting, tea was served by the hostess with Mrs. M. C. Sands presiding.

PRINCE OF WALES

A talk by H.R.H. The Prince of Wales on the Silver Jubilee Thanksgiving Fund, will be broadcast Sunday, May 5, 11.45 a.m. on transmission No. 4 and 11 p.m. on Transmission No. 1.

A topical talk by Philip Thornton on Jubilee proceedings, will be heard Sunday, May 5, at 11.30 p.m., on Transmission No. 1, and Monday, May 6, at 2.40 p.m. on transmission No. 4.

REVIEW OF REIGN

On Monday, May 6, at 9.30 a.m. on transmission No. 4, and at 9.15 p.m. on Transmission No. 1, the BBC plans to present a special Jubilee feature programme at present being composed by Dr. Harold Temperley and Laurence Gilliam. This programme is to consist of a review of the twenty-five years of the King's reign with special reference to the various constitutional and social activities of His Majesty the King during this period. It will conclude with messages of loyal greeting to the King, relayed direct from various parts of the Empire.

The King will then address the people of the Empire from a room in Buckingham Palace, the microphone installation being similar to that adopted for the Christmas Day broadcast from Sandringham. His Majesty will speak from a room on the ground floor overlooking the Palace gardens, the control point being in a room adjoining. The microphone circuits will be connected through this control and the Palace telephone switchboard to broadcasting house.

His Majesty is expected to speak for approximately three minutes.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

On Monday, May 6, at 1 p.m. on transmission No. 4, and Tuesday, May 7, at 12.15 p.m. on transmission No. 1, an electrical recording of the Thanksgiving Service at St. Paul's Cathedral attended by Their Majesties the King and Queen on May 6 will be broadcast.

In addition, the route from Temple Bar to the Cathedral will be wired to enable two commentators to describe the scene, as well as for effects to be picked up from various places. Heretofore, it has been customary during an outside broadcast to make the commentaries the main feature, but a different method will be adopted on May 6. Descriptive detail will be reduced to the minimum and the BBC will provide listeners with a sound picture, supported by brief descriptions by eye-witnesses. The voices of London will be left as far as possible to speak for themselves.

After the service, which will be broadcast in its entirety, Their Majesties' departure will be described from the gallery in the facade of the cathedral where the commentator has a unique view of the scene. The microphones will be so placed that, as the royal procession advances, the cheers of the spectators will be heard by listeners almost continuously from Aldwych to St. Paul's.

Twenty-seven circuits in all will be used for the commentaries and service; one of the four outgoing main circuits in the gallery of the west facade of St. Paul's will be reserved exclusively for a foreign commentator.

KING SPEAKS AGAIN

On Thursday, May 9, at 1 p.m., on transmission No. 4, and at 10 p.m. on transmission No. 1, His Majesty the King will be heard a second time, when an electrical recording will be broadcast of the proceedings when His Majesty goes to Westminster Hall on May 9, to receive a loyal address from members of the Lords and Commons.

A speech by Rudyard Kipling following the banquet of the Royal Society of St. George, will be heard on Monday, May 6, at noon, on transmission No. 4, and on Friday, May 10, at 10.15 p.m. on transmission No. 1.

The British Broadcasting Corporation stresses the fact that the arrangements for these broadcasts are still at a tentative stage.

The Way Beyond
By JEFFERY FARNOL

"But, great heavens, George—you cannot dismiss such an affair so lightly, or in such contoundedly high-handed fashion."

"Oh, Why not Peter?"

"Because it is altogether too serious."

"Well" but—I be mortal serious, sh—serious as death!"

"But why on earth are you opposed to such a match?"

"You are unreasonable, George, utterly unreasonable, and I think very unwise."

"I be what the Lord and my troubles ha' made me, Peter. And I do the best I can."

"But, George, old fellow, the Wheel of Life must turn, do what we will to check it. Better then to turn with it, trusting to the Beneficient Power that first set it agoing."

"Peter, I don't 'ardly get the sense o' that theer."

"Well, George, when we beget children we liberate forces beyond our conception—we may school them, educate them, set rules and impose laws, but our careful love can guide them only a very little part of the way—beyond that they must and will, choose their own path."

"You mean up, or down—to heaven or hell, Peter?"

"No, I mean heaven, George, for I believe all paths, though they lead through blackest hell, must climb back to God and salvation . . . at last."

"Well now," said George thoughtfully, "This be a comforting thought, old friend, ay a turble comforting thought it be . . . myself being, well, no better than I be and my sweet Prue now one o' God's angels and consequently so fur away from me . . . And to think as I shall reach her again . . . someday . . . even through hell. Lord love ee, Peter, 'tis turble heartsome thought if ever I should get took again wi' tearin's an' rages, as I be sometimes still, and more shame to me! So, Peter, I be might grateful to ee for this thought. But now . . . what's all o' this to do wi' my Rosemary?"

"She's young, George, like my son, and they love each other with a passion that I believe is very deep and pure because it is true. But, George, such love denied, being one of the greatest forces of our nature, may work incalculable evil, and instead of blessing, prove a blasting curse."

"Peter, are ye so turble anxious as your gen'leman son shall wed my blacksmith's lass to save 'em from makin' fools o' themselves—or worse?"

Sir Peter leaned back, staring down at his dusty boots and pinching his somewhat prominent chin as was his wont when at all perplexed; at last:

"George," says he, facing round upon his friend, "George, my dear fellow, I have a confession to make . . . When Dick first told me of this matter I must admit that I, well—I was as much opposed to this marriage as you are. But when I listened to his wise mother's words and realized this was no boyish infatuation but a man's reverent love, strong and steadfast, and now, George, when I see you so much the man you were, though better, of course and gentled by the years—here am I, perhaps a little to my own wonder, very humbly pleading the cause of our children to you and with all my heart . . . for their sakes, and yours, and . . . mine."

"How and why for . . . yourn, Peter?"

"Because to call Black George's child my daughter will be my joy and my honor."

Once more Black George picked up his empty tankard, looked at it and put it down again.

"Honor? says you. Honor! My daughter . . . your daughter! Oh, Peter . . . you've said it! For . . . d'ye see, in honoring my Rosemary you honor the blessed woman as bore her, ah . . . you honor my sweet Prue . . . 'until morning breaks' . . . And . . . I can't say no more, Peter . . . except . . . yes!" Black George choked, but scorning to hide such emotion from Friendship's eyes, he lifted great head and looking on Peter through his tears, reached forth his two hands.

"And now, Peter," said he after some while, "come along in, you shall sit in my Prue's own chair and presently we'll drink tea, though I don't much care for the stuff—but she were powerful fond o' tea . . . deck-ho she used to call it."

CHAPTER XI

Richard, athrill with vigorous life and the joy of it, galloped his gallant steed along Tonat, oft-travelled of late for he was riding to—her. In the breast-pocket of his coat was the letter written by his beloved Mother to this same adored her, a letter with message of such wise sympathy and loving welcome that at his powerful animal whirled him through the sunny air young Richard could have shouted for very happiness. And small wonder.

Reaching the confines of Abbeymere, and almost before he knew it, he checked his exuberance and approaching the tall, iron gates, was surprised to see them shut; so he rang the bell, in response to which summons there now issued from the lodge a comely fellow in neat livery whom he had known these many years and therefore hailed familiarly:

"Good day, Budge, old fellow! How are you, John?"

"Arternoon, Mr. Vibert, Sir! answered John, unbolting.

"Why must you lock the gates so early, John?"

"Dunno sir. 'Tis his lordship's orders, no strangers to be admitted this way. But you bean't no stranger, sir—leastways I s'pose I can let ee in and yet—I donno. But, Master Richard sir, I does know one thing!"

"And what's that, John?"

"There be summat up, 'treabouts."

"Eh? What do you mean?"

"Well, sir, I means as th' owd place be 'aunted. Ah, an' small wonder—wot wi' all them old ruins, an' the mere so black an' gashly as it be! No, I ain't nowise surprised if goblings and ghosts flit in sich a place; 'tis only to be expected-like. But it do come crool-'ard on me, considering my honeymere breeches, and them good as noo."

"Why, what's all this of breeches and goblins, John? Just what are you trying to tell me?"

"What, John?"

"Th-e here goblin, sir. Went a-flittering across the park it did, and vanished as I watched. Then tother evening I seen it a-glaring at me from they bushes over agin the wicket-gate as leads into Fallowdean Copse! And last night sir, ay—last night 'twere me breeches! Dog bite me if it didn't make away wi' me kersemere breeches and them good as noo!"

"But how could a goblin steal a man's breeches?" laughed Richard. "It can't be done, John."

"Why, sir, they kersemere breeches was not on me, d'ye see—leastways I wasn't in 'em, Mr. Richard, seeing as they was 'anging out on the line in me bit o' gardin yonder . . . And now—gone sir! Plowed away! And 'ow should they?"

"Stolen by gypsies or some tramp, of course, John."

"Ain't p-ossible, sir! Never no gipsy nor no tramp don't no'ow never find their thieving ways in here, sir—no! So it couldn't nowise be the like o' they!"

"Hum!" quoth Richard, struck by sudden thought, "Then perhaps it was some sort of goblin."

"Mr. Richard, there ain't not never nowise no manner o' doubt o' that. Howsandever my kersemere breeches be took and vanished . . . and good as noo . . . Was you wishful to see Lord Iford, sir, because, if so, 'e ain't in and—"

"No, no. I am here to deliver a letter to . . . to Miss Ford."

"Ford?" repeated John, scratching his ear thoughtfully. "She be the young governess lady as be along o' my lady Bedingham and children. Well, sir, she ain't in neither."

"Oh, confound it! Are you sure, John?"

"Sartein, sir! She be out a driving wi' her loddyship and children."

"Why then I'll wait, will she be long, d'you suppose?"

"Mebbe a hour. Mebbe two. Mebbe arf an hour. Anyways she'll be back if you waits long enough, sir. Now will ee wait up at th' 'ouse, my lord th' Earl be up and about again though 'obbling, or will ee set wi' me a peice in me lodge?"

"Thank you, neither. I'll ride round and wait in Fallowdean Copse. Will you tell her she'll find me there?"

"Ay, I'll tell her, Mr. Richard."

"Thanks, John. Let her know the instant she returns, will you?" So saying, Richard thrust divers coins into John's ready palm, and turned his impatient Saladin.

"Why not ride across the park, Mr. Richard, it be a sight nearer."

"But I've plenty of time, deuce take it! And I prefer the open road and lanes, John. My respects to Mrs. Budge."

Richard nodded, gave Saladin his head and away they went with thud of flying hoof and creak of leather, and both of them enjoying it like the high-spirited, vigorous young animals they were, though to be sure Richard's joyus exuberance was somewhat damped. Reaching the copice, and all too soon, he dismounted, left Saladin to crop the grass, stepped into the leafy shade and looked round about upon this secluded spot hallowed by memories of the beloved she destined to his love and care . . . someday. Moved by such very lover-like thoughts he came beneath "her tree" and drew off his gauntlet to [illegible] with sore hand for her dear sake and was

BROKE HER LEG AGAINST A STAIR

Whilst Hampered by Rheumatism

"Two years ago," writes a woman, "I was suffering with rheumatism in my legs, and upon retiring upstairs one day just lifted my right leg against the stairs, and broke my leg just below the knee. I was in hospital for four months, and when I came out someone advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I did so, and now I have no trace of rheumatism. I would not be without my daily dose of Kruschen, which I take every morning—half a teaspoonful in warm water."—Mrs. P. B.

WATER SYSTEM FOR SAANICH

Extension to Experimental Farm Discussed By Board of Trade at Brentwood

Brentwood, April 3.—Reeve William Crouch, at the annual meeting of the Saanich Board of Trade in the Women's Institute Hall, Monday night, spoke on the proposed water system to carry water for domestic purposes to the Dominion experimental farm at Sidney Bay.

If the federal government carried out the work as now proposed, the reeve said, farmers and unemployment would benefit immensely.

Election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, R. P. Butchart; president, W. C. Wallace; vice-president, J. E. Sladen; secretary, W. H. McNally; treasurer, M. Atkins; auditor, L. W. Goddard; council, honorary presidents of the Saanich Farmers' Institute, the Horticultural Association and the Agricultural Society.

Those elected to the council were Reeve Crouch, J. S. A. Bastin, Captain Gray, W. C. Kersey, C. E. Seyz, Councillor Hagan, Hugh Creed and F. Holloway.

The tourist movement was discussed, and it was decided to arrange for an open meeting next month, when Mayor Leeming and L. H. Edick will be asked to address the meeting.

A resolution from the Nanaimo Board of Trade was endorsed after a lengthy discussion on the improvement of the main highway of Vancouver Island, and that a fair share of the proposed expenditure for outlay on roads be allotted to Vancouver Island.

It was decided to send a letter of thanks to the municipality for the slight reduction on the improvement tax, which would benefit farmers a little and was a step in the right direction.

A resolution opposing daylight saving was endorsed.

Officers Will Be Elected at Meeting Next Tuesday

In order that the knowledge gained in the public speaking and salesmanship classes of the night school, under the instruction of Dr. Clem Davies and L. E. Good respectively, might be supplemented by further practice and experience before the course closed, the salesmanship class suggested the formation of a debating society.

Both classes heartily approved, and W. E. Binns, supervisor of the night school classes, declared that the formation of such a society would be one of the best outgrowths of the night school since its inception, and promised his wholehearted support.

A constitution was drawn up and adopted by both classes at meetings held in the library of the Victoria High School.

Next Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, the new society will hold a banquet in the dining-room of the Douglas Hotel. This will be followed by the election of officers and a short programme. All former and present members of the two classes are invited to attend the banquet and thus become charter members. Those desirous of so doing are asked to communicate with Verner W. Jones, telephone O 1419, on or before April 6.

UNIFORM RAIL ACCOUNTING PLAN

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—A statutory uniform system of railway accounting for all Canadian lines, including depreciation, equipment accounting and obsolence write-offs, was recommended to Parliament in the report of the auditors of the Canadian National system, tabled to-day in the House of Commons.

It was specifically recommended that $39,280,597 be charged to Canadian National profit and loss account to cover 16,912 units of obsolete rolling stock and works equipment.

Dispelling considerable wrong information respecting the economies of Canadian railways gained circulation because of improper comparisons of the two major railway systems, the report expressed belief that much of this confusion would be removed if a uniform system of accounting were in force.

Tells Work Of Philanthropist

Dean Quainton Chooses Life Story of Lord Shaftesbury As Lecture Theme

The work of Lord Shaftesbury, whose philanthropic efforts were responsible for the alleviation of conditions in mines and collieries during the nineteenth century, was the subject of an address by Dean Quainton in the Memorial Hall yesterday evening.

The Dean believed Shaftesbury had been one of the greatest philanthropist of all times, but felt he had come into the world too soon to permit him to complete the things which he had set out to do.

Hodder's life of Shaftesbury was referred to by the speaker as giving an authentic view of conditions which existed during his time, from 1801 to 1885. Shaftesbury became a member of Parliament in 1826 and during his years of office worked untiringly in the interests of those who were victims of the economic situation. The Dean also mentioned the book entitled "The Life of Lord Shaftesbury," by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, writers who investigated later labor conditions in England, as giving a thorough account of the philanthropist's work.

TELLS OF CONDITIONS

The speaker vividly described conditions of women and children employed by industry, stressing their treatment in the Lancashire cotton mills and the woolen mills of Yorkshire. He described them as "tiny shreds of humanity dragging out an existence all for the profit that you must not touch."

Shaftesbury's fight for improvement of working conditions in the mines and collieries was told and the Dean explained he had been responsible for improvements in health conditions, sanitation and housing for the working people.

Reference was also made to Shaftesbury's work to aid the insane as commissioner of lunacy, a post which is held for fifty-seven years. He was also an active president of the Bible Society.

Bennett, president of the local teachers' association, was in the chair. Mr. Ewing dealt with modern educational aims and objectives in theory and in practice. He urged the development of an open mind, curious mind, and that teachers should attempt to free their charges with minds made up of that which was good without inserting the term done for evaluating such things as means. After the meeting Mr. Ewing was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clark Wright.

Who buys your shirts and socks?

More than 80% of all men's shirts, stockings, underwear, neckties and handkerchiefs are purchased by women. Why? Men prefer to have their wives and mothers do the shopping because they realize that women are better shoppers—that they have a sixth sense for qualities and values.

How do women keep themselves informed? They have formed the habit of reading the advertisements in the newspapers. And they read them regularly, whether they want to buy anything or not. Then they know exactly where to go to purchase what they need, and they know to a penny just what they will have to pay. From the advertisements any one can learn where to buy better clothes, better foods, better household goods, better everything. Read them carefully. They have news and suggestions for you!

Mine Reopening Is Conditional

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 3.—Reopening of the Porter Idaho Mining Co. Limited, property in the Portland Canal district is dependent upon reasonable assurance of silver market stability, Bert Smith, general manager of Premier Gold Mining Co., which controls the Porter Idaho, told shareholders of the latter company at the annual meeting to-day.

Mr. Smith said he was not prepared to state at what price silver would have to be before reopening of Porter Idaho would be considered. He declared the property is purely a silver mine and expensive to operate, and operation under present conditions would be liable to dissipate the resources of the mine.

Mr. Smith was named general manager to succeed D. L. Pitt, now in Australia. Directors were re-elected.

NEW STAR IS TO MAKE FILM

Mona Barrie Starts Movie Career By Riding on a Bus

Hollywood, April 3. — Mona Barrie, who will soon be seen in the title role of the "Mystery Blonde," had never considered motion pictures as a medium for her talents.

The young Australian actress was engaged for several London productions, and journeyed from her home in Sydney to the United States en route to fill them. She even visited the movie capitol, but never went near a studio. It was while she was in New York waiting to set sail for England that a Fox Film scout saw her and signed her to a contract.

Having appeared, during her short lifetime, in almost every type of stage characterization, Miss Barrie comes to Hollywood a seasoned trooper with a record of performances behind her of roles that called for variegated props, ranging from a red nose for slapstick parts to the royal tiara in the most sophisticated of the Noel Coward dramas.

Born in London on December 18, daughter of a well-known concert singer in England, Mona lived in France until she was eight, when her parents took her to Australia.

At twelve she decided on her own that she wanted to dance, and so she took ballet lessons, tulle skirts and all, later to enter a dancing group under the direction of J. C. Williamson, who owned a comedy company that toured Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania, and for three years Mona tripped the stage on her toes.

"I was not so good," she explains. "And I think my toes objected to the too strenuous exercise. And my calves, like those of most ballet dancers, grew tremendously."

She decided to go on, and drifted into the legitimate theatre, working her way up in the favor of Australasia's public until she was playing the leading roles in such presentations as "Hay Fever," "Let Us Be Gay," "While Parents Sleep," "Autumn Crocus" and others.

She was frequently asked to make pictures "down under," but could not see her way clear, because "there is plenty of talent in Australia, but no proper use is made of it. I just felt I wouldn't like it, and in every interview I declared myself emphatically against the cinema."

Miss Barrie's single diversion is walking in the rain, a sport she indulges in too infrequently, she says. She took an assignment in London chiefly because she wanted to see its fogs and dreary weather again. She plays tennis and is a fresh air enthusiast.

She has an excellent singing voice. She is five feet five inches tall, has brown hair, hazel eyes and fair complexion.

DOMINION THEATRE

Do Not Let Blood Flow Endanger Your Life

Continued Loss, or Bleeding From Artery, Lungs or Stomach, Requires Immediate Treatment Under Doctor's Direction

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

You needn't worry much about a slight loss of blood, when you cut yourself, because the blood-forming organs of the body can take care of that easily.

But don't let the blood continue to flow too long, or the loss may become a serious matter. Besides the loss of blood, other factors associated with wounds are quite important and may threaten life itself.

A wound is any injury in which the skin is broken and there is damage to the tissues beneath it. When a large wound occurs, call a doctor at once. The clothing should be removed so as to permit an inspection of the condition, and it should be turned back so that it will not touch the wound.

Moreover, those who are trying to help should avoid touching the wound with their fingers. Air will not infect the wound in the vast majority of cases, but fingers may.

A wound of an artery is always serious. The blood comes in spurts and is light red in color. A wound from a vein is less serious. The blood will come and flow steadily and appear to be dark red in color.

When there is bleeding from the nose, in the vast majority of cases the condition is not serious. Many simple methods of stopping nose bleeding are useful, such as the application of cold water, or the pressure of cotton or gauze packed gently into the nostrils.

When blood comes from the lungs, as in tuberculosis, it flows from the nose and mouth; such blood is frothy and very red. The patient should be put flat on his back, an ice bag or towel wrung in cold water should be put on his chest and a physician should be called immediately. When blood is vomited from the stomach, the condition is always serious.

In the care of ordinary wounds the two most important factors for control are the prevention of infection and stopping of the bleeding. In giving first aid, do not handle or wash a wound. Put on a clean surgical dressing.

Among the antiseptic substances that are useful are tincture of iodine, pure alcohol or green soap. There are also many well advertised antiseptics which vary in their potency.

If blood is flowing steadily from a cut, it may be necessary to put on a tourniquet between the wound and the heart. This will stop the flow of blood.

It is obviously not possible to put tourniquets around the neck or abdomen. In such cases pressure by a tight bandage may serve the purpose.

FOURTEEN BECOMES BOY CRAZY AND CREATES A PROBLEM

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"What can I do about my fourteen-year-old daughter?" asks a mother. "She gets out of school and won't come home. She is getting boy crazy, and after school it's going to the drug store for sundaes or piling into someone's car and taking a ride.

"Sometimes she walks home with the other girls, but be sure there are some heroes near. Then out somewhere after supper again. I hardly ever see her any more, and as for helping me, she doesn't know I'm alive. I try to talk to her and make her see that it is only common to run around so at her age, but she keeps silent, and the first thing I know she is at the telephone giggling about what 'he' said, to some of her girl friends, or what 'he' looked like, or where 'he' was going. He, he, he—until I am sick of it.

"She is just a little girl yet, and her father and I are worried. We are afraid to be too severe because we fear she might be worse than ever. But she knows we are worried. What can we do?"

SPANKING IS A SOUND CURE

First of all I would spank her. This kid has chosen the run of the streets rather than try to do her part in keeping her parents happy and respecting their wishes.

I am all fed up on this business of youngsters feeling they own the earth and the lopsided propaganda that has gone out about not letting your children get away from you by being soft and sweet and sympathetic. True, relationships of the right sort should have been established long ago. In every correctly balanced household there is a nice mixture of love, trust and at the same time respect for authority and opinion, and each other's feelings.

Little children in their first formative years need more intelligent sympathy and guidance than they usually get. Children past childhood usually receive less disciplining than they need. We smack the little tots and let the others do pretty much as they please.

There is no harm in a girl being fascinated by those handsome sophomores even at fourteen. We cannot tell nature to mind her business. There is, in fact, a lot of good in young crowds being together, too. But such parties or rides or whatnot should be in homes or where older people take the responsibility.

PROVIDING A SAFETY VALVE

To forbid a girl of fourteen or fifteen to look at a boy leads to trouble as a rule. Let them have their little blow-outs. Let them talk and giggle about "he." Outlets are wholesome things. Suppressions are likely to explode.

But if a young lady acts like this woman's daughter, causing her parents worry and sleeplessness and heartache, she needs more than moral suasion. "Spanking" (interpret it as you like, parents, either actual or figurative), might teach some of these kids that they don't own the earth.

But don't expect, as long as you hand them new dresses and the latest in hats and shoes and spending money, with your eyes still red from your last cry, that things will be any better. A spanking may be the spiritual one of having to do without. "No gimme no takes" might be pinned over their mirrors.

Constant scolding and nagging is foolish and useless. But a pair of parents with spines in their backs can be just as effective as those old-fashioned ones who never had daughters running the streets, whose children were not in danger from motor cars or other things.

Fine Singers Feature Show

"The Georgia Minstrels," who will appear at the Empire Theatre on Friday and Saturday have been received with much enthusiasm during their engagement at the Beacon Theatre in Vancouver this week. Large audiences have attended and all are agreed that this company has lost none of its entertainment art in recent years.

The theatrical critic of The Vancouver Sun said of this presentation "all the delights of the old minstrel show, interspersed with a pleasing variety of modern vaudeville are here this week for Vancouver audiences.

"Everything that goes to make up a good minstrel and vaudeville show are contained in Richards's and Pringle's 'Georgia Minstrels.' There are end men and gag men, a score of great singers, a male chorus the like of which has not been heard in Vancouver for many a day, and tap dancers of whom one never tires of watching. And with it all there is the rythmical music of an orchestra as well as the "Rot-cha-Yow-Zah' band."

This company has always been one of the most popular of its type in the United States. On several occasions it has taken to the road and in former years it often came to Victoria. Several of the old favorites are still with the company while a number of new stars have been added. In all there are between thirty-five and forty persons with the troupe.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Chuck Connors, Steve Brodie, John L. Sullivan, Carrie Nation and even little Swipes the newsie—all of them famous characters of New York's "liveest mile on the face of the globe"—re-live their eventful lives again in "The Bowery," the Twentieth Century attraction at the Columbia Theatre.

Wallace Beery portrays Chuck Connors, George Raft is Steve Brodie, the bridge jumper, little Jackie Cooper is Swipes and George Walsh is John L. Sullivan. Fay Wray and Fert Kelton have the principal feminine roles in the colorful and hilarious panorama of the wicked eighties and gay nineties

CAPITOL THEATRE

Cesar Romero, who scored so heavily as the gigolo in "The Thin Man," has an important role in "Clive of India." Twentieth Century's first million-dollar production, starring Ronald Colman. Romero is seen as Mir Jaffar, uncle of the ruler of India, whom Clive plotted to put on the throne, Suraj Ud Dowlah. "Clive of India" is released through United Artists and is now at the Capitol Theatre

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Lovely Adrienne Ames, one of Hollywood's most popular leading ladies has the stellar role in the motion picture "Gigolette" which is now attracting large audiences to the Playhouse Theatre.

ALL PROVINCES SHOULD CONFER

Premier Says Round Table Talk on B.N.A. Act Needed

In refusing to make representations on the British North America Act to the House of Commons committee, British Columbia is pursuing the course that appears most advisable toward a satisfactory settlement of Dominion-provincial relations, Premier Pattullo explained this morning.

The Premier stated that amendment of the constitution was a matter for round table discussion among all the provinces with the Dominion. There would have to be a certain amount of "give and take" which could not be settled by submission to a committee of the House.

This is the position, he explained, that has been taken by the province since the original proposals to change the B.N.A. Act were made. Attendance of all provincial representatives at a common gathering with Ottawa was essential to achieve satisfactory settlement.

At the time of the last meeting, held in Ottawa early in 1934 to discuss federal financial assistance to the provinces, it was agreed that any action taken by the Federal Government with respect to an individual province should not have bearing upon the treatment of other provinces.

In the case of changes in the constitution, however, there is a difference. While each province has claims of its own, there are several points on which they must meet on common ground.

CANCER FUND LEADER HERE

Dr. A. Primrose of Toronto Urges Support of Fund to Combat Cancer

A notable authority on cancer research, Dr. Alexander Primrose, C.B., M.B., C.M., F.R.C.S., LL.D., professor emeritus of clinical surgery, University of Toronto, and chairman of the national cancer study committee of the Canadian Medical Association, is visiting Victoria to-day in the interests of King George's silver jubilee cancer fund, sponsored in Canada by Her Excellency, Viscountess Bessborough.

Dr. Primrose is on his way back to Toronto after touring in the United States, and he will speak on behalf of the fund at Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg.

To-day he interviewed Hon. George M. Weir, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education, in connection with his mission.

FINE RESPONSE

"There has been a remarkable response to the appeal being made for the cancer fund in Canada, and particularly in the western provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba," said Dr. Primrose in an interview at the Empress Hotel this morning before leaving for the Parliament Buildings to confer with Dr. Weir. "The organization to date has achieved most encouraging results."

"Her Excellency, the Viscountess Bessborough, is receiving subscriptions for the cancer fund, and the money received as a result of the intensive campaign, will eventually be turned over to a trust which is being formed to administer it."

MORE KNOWLEDGE

Questioned as to developments in cancer research, Dr. Primrose said: "The specific cause of cancer is not yet known, but we are constantly increasing our knowledge of it through research work." "Cancer can be cured," he said, "if treated in its early stages."

Last night Dr. Primrose addressed the Vancouver Medical Society, and on Friday night he will speak under the auspices of the health department of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

To-morrow evening he will be the guest of honor at a meeting of the Victoria Medical Society at the Empress Hotel.

It is probable that Dr. Primrose will discuss the fund with Viscountess Bessborough here before he leaves for the mainland.

Dr. Primrose was dean of the faculty of medicine, University of Toronto, from 1920 to 1932, consulting surgeon at the Toronto General Hospital and also at the Hospital for Sick Children.

He held a colonelcy in the Canadian Army Medical Corps and served with No. 4 Canadian General Hospital in Salonika, and was consulting surgeon attached to the Canadian forces in England.

The letter, a copy of one addressed to R. B. F. Sewell, municipal clerk of Saanich and secretary of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, is from Earl McMorran, secretary manager of the Garagemen's Association of British Columbia.

It speaks of a plan to hold public meetings in various parts of the province and states Mr. McMorran the meeting in Victoria will be on or around April 6. # PREPAIDS ARE GIVEN BOOST Month end tax prepayments to the city during the last five days ending yesterday evening had brought in another $8,812 in advance on the 1935 levy, it was announced by officials of the treasury to-day.

At present a total of over $411,791 has been prepaid. That is equal to 52 per cent of the entire prepaid total last year and equals the sum collected up to June 2 in 1934.

WOMAN HIT BY TRAIN IN DRIFT

Trapped in a snowdrift on the railroad tracks one mile south of Pouce Coupe yesterday, Mrs. Helene Heinrichs, Pouce Coupe, was struck by a train, sustaining a fractured leg and suffering from shock according to provincial police wireless advices. She is in hospital at the Peace River town, where her condition is reported fair.

Mrs. Heinrichs made a vain attempt to climb out of the drift when she saw the approaching train ploughing its way through the snow but was only partly successful. Another foot or two and she would have managed to climb up the side of the snowbank and clear of the track.

Vance Enters Petticrew Case

Noted Crime Analyst Gives Court Result of Scientific Inquiry Into Robbery

How science in the modern laboratory works to solve crime mysteries was demonstrated before Judge Lampman to-day during the first day of the trial of Owen and Hugh Petticrew, brothers, charged with the robbery of the Walter Hobson grocery store at 1305 Esquimalt Road, at midnight, January 12.

Inspector John F. C. B. Vance, who had been called in on the case, flew over from Vancouver this morning and took the stand in Judge Lampman's court shortly after noon.

In a cellophane package he brought with him a minute bit of cloth. This had been gathered during a post-robbery investigation of the Hobson store. It was taken while gathering dust and dead insects from the transom.

Inspector Vance, under examination by Prosecutor Henry Hall, K.C., told the court how laboratory examination by spectroscope, ultra-violet rays, fractometer and microscope had revealed that this bit of cloth was the same as that of a pair of ripped trousers which Detectives H. P. Jarvis and Pearon Woodburn had taken from Hugh Petticrew in a Menzies Street rooming house.

The laboratory tests had revealed that the two pieces of cloth contained the same dye, the same dust and the same pattern of threads, Inspector Vance testified.

FITTED RAGGED EDGE

He then went further. With the aid of a large magnifying glass and delicate pincers and before the judge, who came down off the bench, and before the lawyers and court attendants crowded around, Inspector Vance showed that the bit of cloth taken from the transom fitted exactly into part of the ragged edge of the tear in the trousers. The threads of one carried on and ran in regular manner through the threads of the other. So perfect was the fit that Judge Lampman when using the magnifying glass himself had to ask where the tear, shattering the weave and design of the cloth, had been.

Detective Jarvis testified regarding the evidence collecting trip he had made with Inspector Vance to the Hobson store. They took from the transom over the door a piece of wood that had been used as edging for the fly screen. It was on this rough edge that it was alleged a pair of trousers had been torn with a torn bit remaining. A piece of wood from the edging at the side of the door had also been taken. Both, carefully wrapped in cellophane, were produced in court.

FOUND TOOLS

Detective Jarvis also told the court about his visit with Constable Stephenson to the 512 Simcoe Street rooming house on January 18 and there finding an upstairs room occupied by the Petticrew brothers. The detective testified that under a cushion on a chair they found a revolver loaded with four shells. They also found two burglar tools. In a clothes closet they found a parcel which contained eighteen packets of cigarettes. Other cigarettes were discovered on the dresser and in other parts of the room. They also found a screwdriver and flashlight, and around $10 in the trousers with the tear in the left leg.

Mr. Hobson, the store owner, took the stand and testified that the robbers had broken through the transom [illegible] stolen quantities of cigarettes and tobacco, chocolates and marshmallows, had gone through the till and taken about $10 in money which had been left there, and had also taken the shop electric flashlight. Mr. Hobson identified the flashlight which the police had found in the Petticrews' room as the one which had been used in his store for six months.

Victor Edward Carter, delivery man at the Hobson store, also identified the flashlight as that which had been used in the store. It was brought out in examination that Mr. Carter had known the flashlight so well that at police headquarters he had without delay been able to pick it out from a lineup of four flashlights of a similar design.

The trial is continuing.

Ross, who has represented the riding in the federal House since 1921. Dr. Ross will be opposed by Norman Rogers, professor of political economy at Queen's University, chosen by the Liberals a month ago.

SAYS CANADA PEACE FACTOR

Governor-General Hopes to Be Canada's Unofficial Ambassador

"Believing as I do, most firmly, in the immense service that Canada and the Old Country jointly can, in harmony, render to the strength of the Empire and indeed, to peace of the world, I look forward to being able to give what modest service I can to that great cause, as an unofficial ambassador for Canada in England," stated His Excellency, the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, when speaking before members of the Men's Canadian Club of Victoria at luncheon to-day at the Empress Hotel.

"When I told my young Canadian son that we were to leave Canada he summed up the feelings of the whole family when he said, quite bluntly and decisively, 'Don't want to go'," the Governor commented.

His Excellency said he was glad to learn that he was to be followed by so distinguished a man as John Buchan. He recalled that it had been forty years since a Scotsman had been named to that position. He said he felt sure the Canadian people would extend a warm welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Buchan.

LEARNED MUCH

"I have learned a great deal on a surprising range of specialized subjects such as medical research, forestry, boy scouting, Indian folk lore, grain and driving a locomotive," the speaker said. "I think I have gone a long way towards knowing Canada, for I have become tremendously interested in the country. It is a big country and so naturally a big subject. The service of a Governor-General does not cease when he leaves Ottawa and returns to England. That may be the time when he may be of the most use. When I return I shall delight in bringing Canada and England more and more closely together in sympathy and understanding."

Lord Bessborough said he would liked to have postponed his present trip until the coming summer and so at the present time he would still have had the pleasure of anticipation. But because there will be a general election in Canada this summer, when a tour by a Governor-General was not possible, he was obliged to come now and say farewell to the Canadian people.

SAD MOMENT

"The relinquishing of any office and closing a definite chapter in one's life is a rather solemn moment and in my case I may say that it will also be a sad one," His Excellency stated. "It will be no easy matter to sever in one moment the many, many intimate ties that have bound us to a great country. The personal friendships and memories will persist, of course, but all the duties will end.

"I have often been asked," His Excellency continued, "'what exactly does a Governor-General do?' I asked the same question of Lord Willingdon when I saw him in London before I came to Canada. I think that what a Governor-General does, he is doing all the time. It is a very busy, a very absorbing, and in my opinion, a very useful life. One thing I can say that a Governor-General is doing all the time is continuing his education. He comes into daily contact with a stream of experts."

The Governor-General spoke of the beauties of Vancouver Island, which he termed an "enchanted island." He said he was glad to see a definite organization had been formed to promote tourist travel. He wished the organization every success.

"I can't think you will have any difficulty in persuading people to come here," he said. "I wish you success, not only on your own account but also for the pleasure of the people who will come here."

SILVER JUBILEE

His Excellency also referred to Canada's part in the celebrations connected with the Silver Jubilee of King George. He spoke of the loyalty of all Canadian subjects of His Majesty.

Herbert Anscomb, president of the Canadian Club, who occupied the chair, introduced the Earl, who was thanked for his address by Mayor Leeming.

Among those at the head table were: Hon. John Hart, Hon. G. M. Weir, Hon. Gordon Sloan, Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson, Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips, Bishop J. H. MacDonald, Dean Quainton, Rev. E. F. Church, Rev. W. G. Wilson, Commander George C. Jones and Major Walter Barty.

Famous Gardens Lecture Topic

Arrangements have been made for an illustrated lecture on famous gardens of the world by Dr. H. T. Gussow, Dominion botanist and chief of the department of plant pathology in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday evening, April 17, it was announced this morning.

Dr. Gussow's lecture, which will be profusely illustrated with beautiful colored lantern slides, will deal with proposed national botanic gardens for Canada. Dr. Gussow has visited the leading gardens of the world and has given particular attention to those of the British Empire.

In view of the interest of citizens in the development and beautification of the capital city during the next few years this lecture by such a recognized authority as Dr. Gussow should have a wide appeal. The lecture is being sponsored by many public bodies, including the Victoria Horticultural Society and the people of Victoria and district are cordially invited to attend.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

SELECTIVE LOG PLAN STUDIED

Minister to Visit Oregon Operations With Chief Forester

To study selective logging method being carried on in Oregon, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, and P. Z. Caverhill, chief B.C. forester, will leave here this week-end.

Mr. Gray said his department was following closely the experiments in the selective system. There has been a demand that B.C. should adopt the method for its entire logging system. While this is not considered justified at the present time, merits of the scheme will be closely investigated.

During the last two sessions of the B.C. Legislature there has been a constant barrage from some sections of the C.C.F. Opposition urging the use of the selective method to preserve forests.

The lands department has been studying the matter for several years with a view to determining the adaptability in this province. Mr. Caverhill inspected the Crown Willamette operations in Oregon last year with this in mind.

Two of the chief arguments used against adoption of the method in B.C. are that steep sidehills are not suitable for the use of caterpillars in logging, and that there is difficulty in removing slash, which remains a danger to the timber left standing.

In what are known as "two-storey" forests on fairly even ground, the method can be utilized to economic advantage, it is stated, since it enables operators to take out the older trees and leave the younger ones. In the same way it is valuable where timber stands are mixed in variety. One species on which operation is profitable may be taken out, and the others left.

Mr. Gray, in his visit to the U.S., is also expected to look over the power development now going on in the Skagit Valley. He will investigate reports that this will involve backing up water into B.C. around the Hope area.

Mr. Caverhill will address the American Society of Forest Engineers at Seattle, Friday.

SPINNING SHOWN RABBIT BREEDERS

Before a large and appreciative meeting of the British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association, held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening, Victoria Women's Institutes demonstrated the art of spinning, carding and preparing Angora rabbit wool.

Members were so interested that they decided to hold an exhibition of spinning the next monthly meeting.

Preliminary plans for the fall show to be held in conjunction with the Provincial Fair at the Willows were also discussed at the meeting.

GOLF AT DUNCAN

Duncan, April 2. — The monthly meeting of the committee of the Cowichan Golf Club was held in the clubhouse Monday afternoon, with E. F. Duncan in the chair.

The committee decided to make a donation of $5 to the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union, British Columbia branch, in response to an appeal for funds to cover expenses of the Canadian open championship, which will be held in B.C. this year for the first time.

C. R. Drayton, president, was appointed delegate to the annual meeting of the B.C. Golf Association, to be held at the Royal Colwood Club on April 21.

New members elected were Mrs. E. Forrest, Miss Ruth Wolcot, Miss Agnes Brown, Miss Myrtle Prayne, Archdeacon H. A. Collison, J. F. C. Reynolds, J. Bodner and Charles Collison Junior.

RACING DATES STILL IN AIR

Provincial Exhibition Here Expected to be Set Back to September

Officials of the British Columbia Agricultural Association were still negotiating this afternoon with horse racing interests regarding the staging of races here this year.

While no definite word was forthcoming, it was understood the city would have to alter its fair dates, to conform with the requirements of the racing interests who wish to stage a meet here in September.

After an hour and one-half session this morning, at which the case was given study by British Columbia Agricultural Association executives, the fair leaders were scheduled to meet the racing interest representatives this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

If the city declines to grant racing dates this year, it [illegible] to lose its annual grant from pari-mutuels. In addition it would suffer the loss of an indeterminate sum in gate receipts. The pari-mutuel grants last year were $8,300, while the gates amounted to between $5,000 and $4,000, it was estimated. On that basis, the loss of horse racing would cost the fair association and the city up to $7,000.

MAY BE UPSET

"The whole thing may be upset, however," Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the B.C. Agricultural Association, said, in a statement in regard to the afternoon meeting.

Racing representatives were not present at the meeting this morning. Those who attended were Aldermen T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the association; J. D. Hunter, Walter Luney, Andrew McGavin, W. T. Straith, D. D. McTavish and W. H. Hearne, secretary of the B.C. Agricultural Association, representing the full executive of the association.

Provided the change in dates is made the fair will be set back to the week of September 7 to 14 inclusive instead of from August 17 to 24.

Yesterday the racing interests, represented by Jack Brighouse, and F. W. Randall and other mainland delegates, including A. D. Patterson, Ladner, and Charles Oldfield, Richmond, attended the meeting with the local fair executive at the office of the Minister of Finance, Hon. John Hart.

The local association is opposed to a later fair on the grounds it would be too late for the main volume of tourists, would run the risk of unfavorable weather and would not afford the same possibilities of co-operation with outside exhibitors.

Kelowna Bringing Smart Club To Battle Blue Ribbons

THE SPORTS MIRROR

HE WAS A slick-haired ebony figure wearing patent leather shoes, with contrasting white socks when he made his ring debut in the U.S. He received something like $32 for his efforts. From that lowly start he went on to win two world titles and was one of the principals in the largest gate ever drawn by little fellows in which no title was at stake. Kid Chocolate. Right. You guessed it the first time.

From far off Venezuela comes word that the Kaed, the dandy of the featherweight and junior lightweight divisions a few years ago, was soundly thrashed by one Simon Chaves. The Cuban was paid a sum he would have scorned when he was in his prime merely for showing his golden smile. Why? The Kaed hasn't got a dime he can call his own left from the more than a half million dollars he earned with the padded mittens.

Chocolate was the toast of boxing fans who loved to watch a boy who could box prettily and hook out with a dynamic punch when the going was too hot for comfort. Fame and the flattery that goes with it was too much for the simple little negro, who rose from the gutters of Havana as a newsboy into possession of more money than he knew existed. A dozen suits of clothes at a hundred dollars a crack, dozens of silk shirts, shoes, hats, and so forth. He was in fact the Harlem fashion plate and set the styles for the dandies.

• • •

Chocolate was a "movie" picture boxer. He started off as a mere stripling weighing ninety pounds and caught the fancy of a Cuban promoter. He bought up all the movies of famous fighters and made the little chap study and practice every move made famous by immortals of the ring. He learned quickly and, after cleaning up everything in his native land, set sail for the U.S. where he rose to his greatest performance in capturing the 126-pound crown.

He grew too heavy for that class and after winning the 130-pound title challenged for the lightweight crown worn by Tony Canzoneri. The tide of battle surged back and forth throughout fifteen rounds of bitter fighting, and when the decision went to the Italian the Kaed broke down and cried as though his heart would break.

• • •

It was that way with Chocolate. He went the limit in everything he did. Fight or play made no difference to him. The limit or nothing. That is why the Cuban is now touring the outer fringes of boxing civilization taking what he can in the only game he knows.

Kid Chocolate's downfall is a lesson to those who do not know the meaning and penalties attached to the glory of success. Easy come and easy go was Chocolate's road to financial ruin.

Glenn Cunningham is the greatest name in track to-day. The Kansas Flyer wound up the U.S. indoor campaign with a double triumph on the pine boards. He justified the opinion that he is supreme indoors at any distance from the 1,000 yards to a mile and a half.

Cunningham's time for the mile outdoors is four minutes six and seven-tenths seconds. This is the world mark for the distance. Pounding along on the sharply banked indoor pine saucer, Glenn needs less than three seconds additional to negotiate the distance.

• • •

Cunningham is one of those ace runners who come up but once in a decade and is practically unbeaten at any distance within his reach. He is both runner and racer. He can go out and break the hearts of his rivals by setting a blistering pace from the outset or lay back and come on to pass the leaders down the stretch as though they were standing still. In addition to these rare qualities he possesses the single and distinction enough to make him stand-out thus brings the fans to their feet whenever he commences that last blinding sprint.

• • •

Physically he is the strongest of the middle distance runners despite flame-seared legs. He has the will and the determination to punish himself to beat off competition and these are qualifying marks of a true champion. Cunningham risked an unbeaten indoor record recently when he competed in the Casey 1,000 yards special, and an hour later faced the starter's gun for the Columbia mile. Needless to say, he triumphed in both events.

Oxford-Cambridge Crews in Workouts

Putney-on-Thames, Eng., April 3.—A strong northerly wind against the tide created a miniature sea on the boat race course yesterday but the Oxford and Cambridge crews, tapering off training for the classic varsity race Saturday, got in light workouts nonetheless.

Unless the wind should change before Saturday the race may have to be postponed as the boats, under conditions that prevailed earlier to-day, would have been waterlogged before getting very far.

Late yesterday afternoon the Dark Blues paddled to Hammersmith and back, the only racing attempted being three bursts of six strokes apiece and one of ten strokes.

Cambridge paddling at twenty to the minute and on their return had several short bursts of rowing.

G. C. FOOTBALL

London, April 3.—In a first division English League soccer game played yesterday, Grimsby Town and Huddersfield drew, 1 to 1, on the ground of the first-named club.

Southport and Lincoln City drew 3 to 3, in a northern section, third division fixture. The game was played at Southport.

"Pie" Campbell Leads Interior Club In Series

Former Varsity Star Will Appear in Games at High School This Week-end

LOCAL CHAMPS IN FINE FETTLE

When Blue Ribbons, Victoria's senior A men's British Columbia basketball champions, step onto the High School floor on Friday evening to clash with Kelowna for the right to represent this province in the Canadian playdowns, they will be up against one smart outfit. The complete lineup of the interior squad was received to-day, and it combines several veterans with fast-stepping youngsters.

The teams will play again on Saturday evening and total points will decide the victor. Kelowna won the provincial B men's crown by defeating Vancouver Forsts at Kelowna in a two-game total point series.

Preliminary games starting at 8 o'clock will be played each night. Local basketball officials announced to-day that fans must pick up their reserved seat tickets for both games by 5 o'clock to-morrow evening or they will be sold.

ARRIVE TO-MORROW

The Kelowna players will arrive here to-morrow afternoon and will proceed to the High School for a workout on the strange floor. They are coming by way of Anacortes and will reach Sidney to-morrow afternoon at 12.30 o'clock.

The Kelowna team has enjoyed a splendid season in exhibition games and boast victories on their home floor over the Vancouver Province, New Westminster Adanacs and several clubs from Wenatchee and Yakima.

Leading the invaders will be Harold "Pie" Campbell, who is the captain. "Pie" is well known to Victoria followers of the game through his playing with University of British Columbia team which won the Canadian championship several seasons ago. He plays guard and is fast and shifty and packs a deadly shot from any part of the floor. Campbell is six feet tall and weighs 170 pounds.

Owing to three of their regulars being laid up it is not definite just who will partner Campbell at guard.

The centre position will be looked after by Cook Ryan, who is six feet two inches tall and tips the scales at 187 pounds. He is the playmaker of the club and has shown much improvement this season. Is now turning in a great defensive game in addition to his work on the front rank.

TOMMY FORBES PLAYS

The other forwards of the team are Ken Griffiths, George McKay, Charlie Pettman, Harold Pettman and Tommy Forbes. The two Pettman brothers are both hard workers and can shoot well. They are great backcheckers and should give the opposing Ribbons forwards plenty of trouble.

Forbes, a former member of the Blue Ribbons, is reported to have been playing great basketball since joining the interior champions. He has put on considerable weight and has all their games this season has been one of the high scorers. Forbes knows the High School floor as well as any of the Ribbons and should be able to sink a few long shots.

The Ribbons have held two workouts this week and Manager J. A. Barnwell reported his charges all ready to go to-day. Every member of the team came out of the Varsity series without injury and the team will face Kelowna at full strength.

Barnwell received word to-day that Raymond Union Jacks and Winnipeg Rollers, champions of Alberta and Manitoba respectively, will meet on a tip out of three game series on April 8, 9 and 11, with the winner to come to the Coast for the western Canada final against the victor of the Ribbons-Kelowna play-off.

HORNETS, SPURS IN SOCCER WINS

Hornets and the Spurs went into a tie for the leadership of the Provincial Recreational Centre Football League yesterday, when the former downed the Rangers 2 to 0 and the latter took the measure of the Albions 5 to 3 in regular fixtures.

The leaders now have three points apiece, with a win and a draw to their credit. Rangers are one point behind with one victory and one defeat, while the Albions bring up the rear with two defeats.

Two matches will be played to-morrow as follows:

THISTLES PRACTICE

A workout of the Saanich Thistles football team will be held at the Athletic Park to-night at 6.30 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

Two 300 Scores In Bowling Tilt

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 3.—Both participants in a bowling match turned in perfect games yesterday. Jack Turaitis, Wilkesbarre, made his twenty-second 300 score in two years, but lost to Adam Savitz, Nanticoke, in six games, 1020 to 1039. Turaitis made 300 in his fifth game and Savitz equalled it in his sixth.

Millers Defeat Japanese 22-0

Tokio, April 3.—Canada's Battleford Millers ran up to six their unbroken string of victories in their Japanese tour when they defeated the Tomakomai-Oji team, 22 to 0 here yesterday evening.

The seventh and concluding game of the tour will be played here against the All-Japan Olympic team on Saturday night. The tourists leave for home two days later.

WOODS WORKS OUT SECRETLY

Seattle Lightweight Prepares For Bout Next Tuesday With Barney Ross

Seattle, April 3.—Believing he could do better without rail birds watching, Henry Woods, Yakima negro and state lightweight champion, worked out several hours ahead of schedule yesterday in preparation for a go here next Tuesday night with Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight champion of the world.

Ross donned his togs and went three sizzling rounds with Leonard Bennett to the edification of several hundred fans. He concentrated on a straight left and left hooks.

"Red" Gregory, tough Los Angeles middleweight, arrived to-day and will meet Sammy McLarnin, Vancouver, B.C., in the semi-final. Sammy is a brother of Jimmy McLarnin, also of Vancouver, world welterweight champ.

WINNIPEG IN SMASHING WIN

Monarchs Nose Out Saskatoon Wesleys 5 to 4 in Junior Hockey Final

Winnipeg, April 3. — You can take it from the respective coaches of Winnipeg Monarchs or Saskatoon Wesleys—and they should know—the team to win the Memorial Cup this year will pack the speed of lightning and the stout heart of a thoroughbred.

Finalists for western junior hockey honors, Wesleyans and Monarchs, possess these attributes to a degree. A slight margin in staying power, however, gave the Manitoba champions a 5 to 4 victory here yesterday evening in the first game of their two-of-three title series. The second will be played to-morrow night.

A wide-eyed crowd of 3,500, amazed at the staying powers of the little fellows, gave the two teams a thundering ovation as they skated off the ice. Speed was the forte of the Saskatchewan titlists. None the less, adept at close checking as they raced at high speed through sixty minutes of play without letup.

The blistering rushes of Stanley Bampson at right wing, Mel Mellows at centre, and Chunky Dick Wyman sent the Wesleyans into a 2 to 1 lead in the first period, and the stout checking of Bill Clubb and Pete Ettinger held their margin intact throughout the second session.

They faltered in their stride, however, midway through a thrill-packed third period, and Monarchs went on to tie the score and punch home the winning marker two seconds before the whistle brought welcome relief to tired athletes.

SUMMARY

First period—1 Saskatoon, Lewick (Kerr), 8.44; 2 Saskatoon, Kerr, 10.09; 3 Winnipeg, Keenan (Krol), 14.35; 4 Saskatoon, Lewick, 18.55. Penalty: Ettinger.

Second period—No score. Penalties: Krol, Barker.

Third period—5 Winnipeg, Prokaski, 7.13; 6 Saskatoon, Kerr, 10.51; 7 Winnipeg, Prokaski, 11.45; 8 Winnipeg, Prokaski (Keenan), 18.06; 9 Winnipeg, Krol, 19.58. Penalties: Clubb, Barker.

Girl Trainer Is Awarded License

New York, April 3.—The Jockey Club broke down the walls of precedent yesterday when it granted Mary Hirsch, twenty-two-year-old daughter of Max Hirsch, famous United States horseman, a license to train thoroughbreds in New York State.

It was the first time in the history of the organization, founded in 1868, that the stewards had approved of a woman's application to be officially recognized as a trainer. Heretofore such a permission was considered an infringement of a tradition as old as racing itself.

Edmonton, April 3.—Possibility Edmonton's arena may be equipped with an artificial ice plant was indicated yesterday at a meeting of the civic finance committee.

CANADIAN AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE HELD AT HAMILTON JUNE 18-22

Toronto, April 3.—The Canadian amateur golf championship will be held in Hamilton June 18-22, it was announced to-day by B. L. Anderson, secretary-treasurer of the Royal Canadian Golf Association. Interprovincial matches will be played in Hamilton June 17.

Consideration was given to several western players on the Canadian team now playing in England who will return June 8 at Montreal, thus saving them double traveling expenses. This is a special arrangement for this year only, Anderson said.

INVESTIGATE CAGE RULES

Centre Jump and Pivot Post Form Main Discussion at U.S. Session

Chicago, April 3. — College basketball, a thriving sport that beamed one of its healthiest box office complexions in the season just passed, was carted to a busy clinic to-day for a thorough examination that may result in major operations to remove the centre jump and pivot post troubles from its system.

The clinic was in charge of some 225 "doctors," members of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, who will hold a three-day consultation over the "patient" and then report their conclusions and recommendations to the chief board of surgeons, the rules committee, which convenes in New York Saturday and Sunday.

Although a survey disclosed that many city suggestions for improvement of the game were to be made, only those involving the centre jump and the pivot post play were expected to come in for serious consideration at the clinic. The general impression was that they, too, would be retained with strict modifications.

American League Teams Have Edge

New York, April 3.—A seven-game winning streak for New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox improved showing against Pittsburgh Pirates have enabled the American League to take a wide edge over the National in the race for the mythical "grapefruit league" baseball championship.

Of the sixty-eight games so far played the American League has won thirty-nine, the National twenty-nine. Fifty-nine games remain to be played but the American loop's ten-game edge is not likely to be overcome.

The Yankees, cleaning up at the expense of Boston Braves, are carrying most of the American League burden. They have won nine of their thirteen games with National League opponents.

OAK BAY WINS SOCCER MATCH

BALL GOSSIP

Associated Press

Orlando, Fla.—Dazzy Vance, trying to make a comeback with his old club, the Dodgers, has struck what he thinks is a winning combination in a uniform. He came out garbed in Lefty O'Doul's panty and Van Mungo's shirt, the former for hitting and the latter for pitching. Incidentally, the dazzler shower enough "stuff" to convey the idea he may earn a regular job.

• • •

Jackson, Miss.—Clydell Castleman, who hadn't even been heard of by the New York Giants until last year, appears to have drawn the job as starting pitcher along with the "Big Four." Castleman came to the Giants in 1934 at the suggestion of Chuck Dressen, then Nashville manager.

• • •

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Although Pat Malone pitched one run, four-hit ball the first five innings in his American League debut, New York Yankees were forced to come from behind with a three-run rally in the ninth to defeat Boston Braves, 7 to 5, in an exhibition tilt yesterday. The victory gave the Yanks a 6 to 3 edge in games.

Orlando, Fla.—With Johnny Babich setting the route and allowing only six hits, Brooklyn Dodgers broke their losing spell yesterday, defeating St. Louis Browns, 8 to 1.

GIVE SUPPORT TO BRADDOCK

New York Boxing Heads Order Madison Square to Get Opponent For Him

New York, April 3.—Perhaps just to re-emphasize its position, the New York State Athletic Commission, in effect, has reiterated its belief that James J. Braddock is the number one challenger for the heavyweight championship.

The commission has ordered Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden's matchmaker, to produce signed contracts, on or before April 16, either for an elimination match between Braddock and Max Schmeling, or for a title match between Braddock and Max Baer.

Just what the Garden will do about it remains to be seen, but the most likely bunch seems to be that it will do neither. Johnston has not been able to persuade Joe Jacobs to send Schmeling against Braddock. Neither does Johnston believe a Braddock-Baer match would draw.

The only alternative apparently, is for the Garden to take a Baer-Schmeling match out of New York State, perhaps to Chicago. Negotiations to that end already are under way. Under the terms of its contract with Baer, the Garden must name a challenger, agreeable to Baer, by April 15. Schmeling already is signed for such a match.

A complicating factor, however, is the question whether Schmeling will fight again in this country. He has indicated he would prefer to meet Baer under the promotional auspices of Walter Rothenberg either in London, Rome or Berlin.

BUCKETEERS IN EASY VICTORY

A sharp-shooting squad of Bucketeers yesterday evening evened up their basketball series with Stan Moore's Y.M.C.A. Wrecking Crew at the association gym as the boys from Mount Tolmie uncorked a dazzling attack in the closing stages of the fixture to hang up a 40 to 22 victory.

The teams stand bracketed now at two wins apiece, following the Y squad's sensational comeback in a recent game. The deciding fixture will be played next week.

Stan Moore, star of the previous game, was held scoreless as the Bucketeers went on the rampage yesterday. At half-time Archie Miller, Frank Skillings and Alan LeMarquand had given the Mount Tolmie squad a 15 to 14 lead, with Albert Reynolds leading the Y in its uphill battle.

In the second half, Reg Wenman hit his stride to run in four baskets. Miller added three and LeMarquand, high scorer of the game, netted another five point in a fine rally which saw the Bucketeers draw up from a two-point lead seven minutes from time to their eventual 40 to 22 triumph.

Red Martin refereed.

Bucketeers — Reg Wenman 8, Archie Miller 9, Bony Hamber 4, Fuzz Tisdall 2, Frank Skillings 6, Alan LeMarquand 11.

OAK BAY GOLF

Mrs. Alex Watson took the honors in A class in the monthly medal competition staged at the Victoria Golf Club yesterday by returning a card of 94-16—78. In B class, Mrs. W. F. D. Pemberton and Miss E. Meistermann tied with scores of 111-29—82 and 107-25—82, respectively. On Tuesday next a foursome competition will be held. Players are asked to select their own partners and opponents.

Speed May Feature Stanley Cup Final

Montreal Maroons Intend to Go After Goals in Hockey Classic With Toronto Maple Leafs; Will Not Concentrate on Jackson and Conacher

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, April 3. — Tommy Gorman, who hasn't made any Stanley Cup mistakes in the last twelve months, has called the turn for at least the first round of hockey's biggest series here to-morrow night—mental freedom for Toronto's "big line." That's the only freedom he intends they should have.

The former Ottawa newspaperman, racing executive and hockey coach, who took the Stanley Cup to Chicago a year ago and took it away with him a week ago, brings his Montreal Maroons here to-morrow with absolutely no designs on Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson, other than to leave them to the defence.

His announcement that the twin bombers of the Leafs would receive no more attention than any other Toronto wingers encouraged hopes of fandom here that the series would not develop into a mid-ice checking duel. The word is out that the speedy Maroons are coming to town for goals.

TWO POWER LINES

The result may be that Gorman's two high-scoring forward lines—Herbie Cain, Gus Marker and Dave Trottier on the one hand, and Earl Robinson, Russ Blinco and Bob Gracie on the other—will try to beat down Toronto's secondary front divisions, while the Leafs attack directly with one line, Conacher, Jackson and Joe Primeau.

Statistically speaking, Maroons can send out two prolific scoring lines to Toronto's one. Unlike Boston Bruins, who had only Eddie Shore and Babe Siebert for the heavy defensive end, Maroons have four first-rate rearguards. From end to end they rate higher than the Bruins—who were tough enough for the Leafs in the National League finals.

Here is an end-to-end statistical line-up, covering both league and play-off games and avoiding individuals as such:

| Team | W. | L. | D. | F. | A. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maroons | 26 | 19 | 7 | 129 | 96 |
| Leafs | 23 | 15 | 4 | 104 | 118 |

| Goal | G. | Allowed | Avg. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Maroons | 96 | 1.88 | 11 |
| Leafs | 118 | 2.17 | 10 |

| Defence | G. | G. | Agst. | Pen. in Mins. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maroons | 16 | 30 | 96 | 195 |
| Leafs | 21 | 46 | 113 | 209 |

| Forwards | G. | A. | Pts. | Pen. in Mins. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maroons | 113 | 69 | 182 | 219 |
| Leafs | 143 | 76 | 219 | 214 |

Regardless of the figures, few critics concede that Alex Connell will provide the Maroons with any better goaltending than George Hainsworth will supply the Leafs. And, too, regardless of the figures, the Leafs have protected Hainsworth in the play-offs quite as capably as the Maroons have protected Connell.

BETTER RECORD

Toronto's defence has a better scoring record than the Montreal quartette, but they compiled it during the regular season when the Leafs did little else but attack. Since the play-offs started, Hap Day, Bill Hollett, Red Horner and King Clancy have been paying strict attention to work around their own blue line.

Montreal's rear division men, Lionel Conacher, Allan Shields, Marvin Wentworth and Stew Evans, may break on a rush to relieve pressure, but otherwise they are expected to sit tight. If this is to be a series where the rival forwards will shoot it out, the defences will likely work within a small area.

Montreal, April 3.—Recovered from the results of watching the Montreal Maroons nose into the Stanley Cup finals, Tommy Gorman buoyantly predicted to-day his team would match anything in the way of speed Toronto Maple Leafs can show in the best-of-five-game final series that starts to-morrow.

Jimmy Ward and Baley Northcott could tie up the Leafs' bombers, Harvey Jackson and Charlie Conacher, Gorman believed, and he did not think Leafs could equal the perfect balance of the three lines he has constructed.

One last practice this morning and Maroons were away to Toronto, seeking the title won by the club in 1926 when the National Hockey League was just beginning to expand across the international border and Pacific Coast teams still challenged for the cup.

The final that year was between Maroons and Victoria Cougars, Maroons having eliminated Pittsburgh and Ottawa in the east. That was Maroons' second year in operation. The nearest they have come to the cup since was in 1928, when Rangers eliminated them in a rippling five-game series featured by Lester Patrick playing goal in one game when Lorne Chabot was hurt.

World Series For College Baseballers

New York, April 3.—A college baseball world's series featuring outstanding American University teams and possibly a representative of Japan, may be held in one of New York's major league parks this summer.

While plans for the series are in a formulative state, the tournament would be held either in the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds—possibly in both—the week of June 24.

Blind Wrestler To Seek Honors

Seattle, April 3.—Bill Dent, 185, totally blind amateur heavyweight wrestler, left this morning to represent the Washington Athletic Club in the P.N.A. championships at Portland to-day and to-morrow.

Turning him a marvel of wrestling, Coach Frank Vance yesterday asserted that Dent, despite his affliction is powerful and fast. Dent once won the northern division collegiate title while attending the University of Washington.

ROWING CLUB HEADS NAMED

Hugh Francis Elected Captain of J.B.A.A. Group For Season

Oarsmen of the James Bay Athletic Association yesterday evening elected their officers for the coming year. Hugh Francis, popular sculler and doubles performer of the local club, was elected captain for the year, with Don Davis acting as vice-captain.

Mac Billingsley, Fred Parker, Arnold Mann, Jim Temple and Ian McConnan were elected to the executive.

Membership this year is expected to be considerably above last year and Coach Moses will have an abundance of material from which to choose his crews this season.

LOCAL HIGH KEEPS CUP

Victoria Institution Beats Mount View 5 to 2 in Soccer Fixture

Three goals in the opening period and two in the second half by sharpshooting Victoria High School players gave them a fairly easy 5 to 2 win over Mount View High School in the second game of the three-game Thomson Cup soccer series, played yesterday on the Fernwood Road pitch. By virtue of two successive wins, Victoria High School retains the trophy.

The locals opened with a strong offensive, which put them away out in front with a 3 to 0 lead at half-time. During the initial canto Fletcher, Thorburn and Barnes scored in that order for Victoria.

INCREASE LEAD

Continuing their aggressive brand of ball in the second half, the black and yellow lads added another tally to their total when Les Bridge made a nice drive soon after the breather.

Mount View scored on Politano's first goal. Dallemore scored for Victoria soon after, and Politano booted in the ball for the Saanich lads' second tally.

D. MacMillan refereed.

Soccer Relegation System Criticized

English Football Association Clubs May Have to Take Matter Into Own Hands to Get "Four Up and Four Down" System Adopted; Pan Tottenham For Not Fighting Relegation

Special to The Times

London, April 2.—Tottenham Hotspur, although in direct peril of relegation to the second division of the league, have done nothing to materially strengthen their playing resources. They have, however, secured the services of Thomas Bell, a forward from Luton Town, and although he was played in the first team immediately, he did not give the impression that he would solve the inside-forward trouble.

It seems that far from strengthening their resources the Spurs are weakening them. Following the transfer of O'Callaghan, their Welsh international inside forward, the London club has transferred David Colquhoun, a wing half-back, to Luton. This was probably part of the deal with Luton regarding Bell. No fee was mentioned in either case.

Colquhoun, who spent five seasons with St. Mirren before joining Hotspur in 1931, played in over 100 league matches for the North London club. He is of the attacking type of half-back, and should prove a valuable acquisition to Luton.

CLUB CRITICIZED

The Spurs have been freely criticised for their inactivity in the matter of preparing to fight relegation which, at the moment, seems to be the fate of the club.

The manager, Percy Smith, however, has pointed out that although they are prepared to pay for the right player, they have no intention of paying false prices, such as seem to be prevalent now.

The transfer system, which has developed into the wholesale buying and selling of players, has long been critized, and many suggestions for altering it have been put forward.

Some of these are:

A tax on all fees, the receipts to be pooled and distributed among the clubs.

The fixing of a maximum sum that may be spent for the acquisition of players each season.

No transfers to be permitted after January 1 each year.

These suggestions, of course, are in the form of more restrictions, limiting the activities of clubs and treating them as if they were all in the same scale, whereas their responsibilities vary enormously.

There seems to be very little that can be done in the matter as things are at present. Clubs which look ahead and build for the future, and those which need immediate strengthening, must have players, and it seems only natural that the clubs who have the players, and also the players themselves, should reap the benefit of a transfer.

Many clubs find it hard to keep going in these hard times. Is it unnatural, therefore, that if they cannot command good gates to keep them going that they should ask a stiff price for any player whom a successful club might be interested in?

Whatever is said against the transfer system, which is necessary—the clubs cannot be maintained without them—the fact remains that the money remains in the game. It is all to the good of the game if the money can be kept in circulation.

MAY BE RESPONSIBLE

Perhaps the present promotion and relegation system can be blamed for much of the trouble. Many of the big transfers are the panicky actions, brought about by anxious directors who fear relegation, or in the other extreme, begin to see promotion slip from their grasp after their team has done well.

Repeated efforts have been made to get the policy changed, say to the "four up and four down" system, but the proposal has always been rejected.

Prejudice against constitutional changes is perhaps natural, especially among the bigger clubs, and this is probably the only reason which has been holding up the change.

But it is obvious that sooner or later the clubs will have to take action in the matter. If there were four promotion places the dread of going down by clubs would not be so great. A period in a lower division would give them the chance to build up their team for an effort to regain their place.

It would be more profitable from the "gate" point of view, too. Fighting for promotion in the top part of the second division, for instance, would create greater interest and consequently increase attendances, making it more profitable than struggling for existence at the bottom of the first division.

MANAGERIAL APPOINTMENTS

Two managerial appointments have been made recently, Bob Kelly, the famous Burnley, Rundevland, Huddersfield Town, Preston North End and England international forward, has joined Carlisle United as a player-manager; Syd Puddefoot, the former West Ham United and Blackburn Rovers forward, has joined Northampton Town F.C. as manager.

It was a toss up as to whether Kelly would throw in his lot with Carlisle or Northampton. He was in the running for either of the jobs.

Joining Burnley as a lad in 1919, Kelly was "capped" for England no fewer than twelve times between 1920 and 1928. Subsequently he joined Sunderland and afterwards went to Huddersfield Town, with whom he received another "cap" in 1930.

Kelly was a versatile player and, when with Burnley, appeared in all five positions in the forward line. A most unselfish footballer, he schemed cunningly for openings for his colleagues and, a tremendously hard worker, he was famed for his brilliant dribbling.

Puddefoot succeeds J. English, who resigned some weeks ago as manager of Northampton. Last season Puddefoot was a player-manager in Turkey, where he did good work in popularizing the game.

Born in London, Puddefoot played for West Ham United up till 1923, when he was transferred, at a big fee, to Falkirk, the Scottish club. He went to Blackburn Rovers in 1926 and in the same season was "capped" for England against Scotland and Ireland.

He was a member of Blackburn's cup-winning side in season 1927-28, when Huddersfield were defeated by three goals to one. In February, 1925, Puddefoot returned to West Ham United. In addition to his caps in 1926, Puddefoot played in Victory Internationals against Scotland and Wales.

A PROBLEM

A point of football law arose during the recent match between Everton and Leeds United, Cochrane (Leeds) returned to the field, after being off injured, and immediately took a principal part in a move which brought a goal.

The referee allowed the point to stand, although the player had not reported his return to the field. This caused a great deal of discussion.

There was a sequel to this incident when the rules revision committee of the Football Association discussed it. Their findings will go before the next meeting of the Football Association council. It is expected that the inquiry will result in a tightening up of the rule regarding the return of players who for some reason previously left the field.

Province Girls Defeat Spencers

Vancouver, April 2.—Vancouver Province girls' quintette yesterday evening defeated Spencer's, also of Vancouver, 26 to 25, in the second of their total-point series for the right to represent British Columbia in the western Canada women's senior basketball final.

Province won the first game last Thursday, 31 to 20. They will meet Edmonton Grads at Edmonton in a two-out-of-three series April 17, 18 and 19.

Spencers put up a hard battle in the first half to take a 15 to 12 lead at the brother, but Province came back to run up a 25 to 21 advantage at the three-quarter mark.

BOSTON STARS GET TROPHIES

Shore, Siebert, Thompson and Clapper Rewarded For Fine Hockey Play

Boston, April 2.—Four outstanding members of the Boston Bruins Hockey Club, beaten in four games by Toronto Maple Leafs in the National League play-off series, yesterday were presented with silver trophies by Charles F. Adams, club president.

Eddie Shore and Babe Siebert, defencemen, remained in Boston for the presentation. The others, however, will be shipped to Goalie Tiny Thompson and Dit Clapper, who headed for their western Canadian homes after the Bruins concluded their season's play in Toronto last Saturday.

Adams said the trophies, to be known as the "President's Cups," would be presented to the team's outstanding stars every season in the future.

Police Chill Stanley Cup Players' Ardor for Fighting

The Stanley Cup match between the third place Rangers and Montreal Les Canadiens teams at Madison Square Garden, New York, was turned into a free-for-all fight when Bill Cook cracked Nels Crutchfield instead of the puck with his stick. While the melee raged, police invaded the ice playing field to help officials restore order. Policemen are shown standing by after hostilities had ceased, while the teams look to their casualties. The Rangers went on to win, 2 to 1.

Coast Ball Clubs Usher In Season

"Play Ball" Will Be Heard in Four California Parks on Saturday; Five New Managers to Make Appearance; Los Angeles Is Favored

San Francisco, April 3.—The Pacific Coast Baseball League will open its thirty-third season on Saturday, with a number of new faces and innovations scheduled for presentation. Five new managers, several flocks of imported players, the split-week schedule, Saturday as the official league opening day, and—in one park—a new deal for the bleacherites, all have served to brighten up prospects in the circuit.

Probably the most advertised addition to the managerial division is Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, who is coming back to his home town, San Francisco, after a decade's service in the major leagues. O'Doul, former world series hero and two years leader of the National League batsmen, is not figured, however, to engineer his Seals into a pennant.

OTHER NEW PILOTS

Other new managers are Oscar Vitt, who transferred to Oakland from Hollywood; Frank Shellenback, veteran league-leading pitcher, elevated to fill Pitt's place with the Stars; Kettle Wirts, who used to catch for Sacramento and now succeeds Earl McNeely as pilot, and Buddy Ryan, who preceded McNeely with the Senators last season and now manages Portland.

On the basis of personnel and performance, Los Angeles is figured to repeat its pennant-winning performance of last season, but the Seraphs will have to flap their wings plenty to ward off the opposition.

Even a new owner graces the landscape this season. He is E. J. Scheffer, who took over the Portland club from Tom Turner in a deal consummated several months ago.

Houston, Texas, April 3.—Berkeley Bell, New Yorker, who is one of the United States ranking tennis stars, had too many tricks in his racquet arm for T. O. Ryall of Vancouver, in the River Oaks tourney here yesterday and the Canadian was beaten, 6-3, 6-1. It was a second round match.

FIGHTS TO-NIGHT

the smart young boxer who came down from Kelowna to star for the Canadian Scottish in the squared circle. This evening he will meet Ted Bray, Vancouver, in one of the features of the Victoria Athletic Club's mixed card at the Tillicum gym. The boys will weigh in under 155 pounds. The bouts are scheduled to start at 8.30 o'clock.

TWO FUTILE POINTS IN U.S. CAGE TOURNEY

Two points for the Globe Refiners of Bartlesville, Okla., were chalked up as Joe Portenberry, left, heaved the ball through the basket and crashed in to the net underneath in the final game of the United States A.A.U. basketball tournament in Denver. But Joe's points were of no avail, for the southern Kansas Stage Lines of Kansas City won the game, 45 to 36. Waiting under the basket is Quinn of Stage Lines, while Light of the winning team blocks out Brown of the Globe.

Bobby Jones Made 6 to 1 Favorite

Former Master Made Public Choice to Win Second Annual Masters' Golf Tournament Which Opens To-morrow at Augusta, Ga.; Gene Sarazen in Brilliant Form

Augusta, Ga., April 3.—Bobby Jones, still playing the part of the genial southern host with more pronounced success than golf, may be the magnet that has attracted so renowned a field of shotmakers for the second annual Augusta national invitation tournament, but his long-time rival, Gene Sarazen, is the target they will all have to worry about when the firing begins to-morrow.

In the midst of a general assault upon old man par yesterday, with sixty-six professionals and amateurs answering the roll call, Sarazen cracked the course's stubborn resistance with a 67, his third sub-par round in four days.

GREAT SHOOTING

Gene has registered rounds of 69, 72, 67, 67 for a seventy-two hole total of 271. This is 17 under par for a layout that Sarazen himself concedes to be one of the greatest tests of golf in the United States.

There were a number of other crackling practice rounds, including a 67 by the veteran Bob McDonald, Chicago, and two sensational performances by Johnny Dawson, a "business man" amateur, who carded 67 and 69 for a brisk day's workout.

Southern sentiment, measured by actual cash wagered, was still potent enough to make Jones a 6 to 1 choice, with Sarazen next at 7 to 1.

Miss Wethered To Get $200 a Match

London, April 3.—The London Express said in its columns Joyce Wethered, British golf star, will receive a minimum of $4,000 for her United States professional exhibition tour which will last for two and a half months.

"I shall play three or four matches a week for eight to ten weeks," the paper quoted Miss Wethered as saying, "and will receive $500 per match."

BOSTON WINS HOCKEY CLASH

Defeats Providence 1 to 0 in First Game of Can-American League Final

Boston, April 3.—There was nothing very decisive or exciting about Boston's 1 to 0 victory over Providence in the opening game of the three-out-of-five series for the Canadian-American Hockey League championship.

Boston's winning goal came in the second period while the Reds played with Art Lesieur resting in the penalty box. Three Cubs drove into the Providence ice, with burly Joe Jervis carrying. He ploughed through his short-handed rivals and drove a close-up shot that Goalie Paddy Byrne batted out to Alex Motter, who played a sterling game for Boston Bruins in last week's title series with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Motter, a Prince Albert product, was forced behind the Providence net by one of the rival defencemen, but managed to pass out to Phil Besler, a fellow-townsman, and the right winger scored a sizzling fifteen-foot shot from the boards.

The three-out-of-five series for the title and the Fontaine Cup will be resumed in Providence to-morrow night and the third contest will be played here Saturday.

Gar Wood May Try For Mark Saturday

Miami Beach, Fla., April 3.—Gar Wood opened up his Miss America X's 7,400 horsepower yesterday for the first time over Biscayne Bay and called for a measured mile of water. The famous speedboat driver said he would attempt to break his own world record of 124.86 miles an hour, "in all probability," Saturday, weather permitting.

Asked if he had the throttle wide open, Wood answered: "You can say we equalled, or bettered, the mile water world record of 111.71 made here three or four years ago in Miss America IX."

Uptrend In Sugars Bolsters Sagging New York Market

Associated Press

New York, April 3.—Modest improvement in sugar shares during late dealings gave a slightly sweetened flavor to an otherwise sour stock market to-day. Leading industrials, utilities, rails and metals improved from the lows of the day, but ended minor fractions to a point or so lower.

The sustained improvement in the statistical position of the sugar industry, coupled with new highs for active months in the futures market, brought modest buying in shares of leading companies in this field, including Cuban-American, common and preferred, Guantanamo preferred, Great Western and American Sugar.

Despite the fact that late news was dotted with a few other bright items, the general run of stocks could not be lured from the narrowly lower trend established in early dealings.

Leaders ending the session with losses of less than a point included American Can, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse, General Motors, Chrysler, Du Pont, American Tobacco "B," Loew's, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Pennsylvania, American Telephone and Consolidated Gas.

Coca Cola led those shares moving in a wider circle, with a loss of more than three points. Others yielding around a point included American Agricultural Chemical, Armour preferred, U.S. Smelting and American Bank Note. Isolated exceptions were Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Phelps-Dodge and Public Service of New Jersey.

In the Canadian section of the list slight recessions appeared in Dome, McIntyre, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel. On the curb, Hiram Walker yielded a minor fraction. Dominion Government 4's improved a shade. Canadian funds were 1-16th of a cent higher at 99 7-16 cents.

Remit Gold For Mexican Silver

Associated Press

Washington, April 3.—The United States treasury to-day announced a new sale of 51,300 ounces of gold, amounting to $1,800,000, to the Bank of Mexico.

The sale was termed similar in every respect to one made a few days ago, when 52,000 ounces amounting to $1,120,000 was transferred to the Mexican Central Bank for the purpose of building up its monetary reserves.

Treasury officials explained the sale was in the nature of a "swap"—gold for silver—as the United States had been absorbing practically all of Mexico's silver output for some time.

MINING LIST IS UNCHANGED

Canadian Press

Toronto, April 3.—Following a rugged morning performance the mining section of the Toronto exchange showed a little snap action towards the end of the session. Secondary gold issues and the silvers traded in a better volume and prices held around the previous closing level.

Heavy trading in San Antonio was the feature of the medium-priced golds and the price closed at 3.50 for a net gain of ten cents. The feature of the penny group was Chibougamau. The price advanced to 25 this afternoon, more than 100,000 shares of the stock exchanging hands.

Bralorne, Dome, Pioneer, Tech Hughes and Wright Hargreaves eased down 10 to 20 cents each. Little Long Lac turned soft, dropped 25 cents to 5.50.

London Exchange Reacts to Bill

Canadian Press Cable

London, April 3.—Continued nervousness was apparent on the London Stock Exchange to-day regarding the Ontario Government's bill purporting to invalidate contracts between the Ontario Hydro and Quebec Power companies, especially over the provisions of the bill prohibiting an appeal to the Ontario courts.

Brokers decided to mark down bonds of corporations similar to those concerned, as a safety measure in view of the precedent, and Hydro-Electric Securities Corporation fell from £3 to £2½, while International Holdings dropped from 15-16 of a pound to 11-16.

Bonds of the power companies directly concerned by the Ontario action are not quoted in London but many are held by insurance and trust companies and private investors. Whether or not any representations will be made in undetermined but it is considered possible that a question may be asked in the House of Commons especially in view of recent representations about Canadian municipal bonds.

The London Financial Times said this morning the new bill had created considerable alarm.

Winnipeg Futures Swing Upwards In Lively Turnover

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, April 3.—Bullish traders marshalled their forces to-day to send wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange upwards in the liveliest advance of the week. Values closed 1½ to 1¾ cents higher, May at 86½ and July 88¼.

A strong Liverpool market and moderate export sales of Canadian wheat encouraged good buying here. Foreign sales were estimated at more than 300,000 bushels of wheat.

Liverpool closed ⅝ to ¾d. higher, due to an estimate of O. J. S. Broomhall, noted grain-trade statistician, only 185,000,000 bushels of wheat remained for export in southern hemisphere wheat-exporting countries.

The estimate, based on April 1 figures, compared with 220,000,000-bushel surplus in Argentine and Australia at the same date last year.

Improved demand for wheat in Continental Europe, it was reported, has increased the buying of futures at Liverpool.

Other outside markets also were strong. Cash grains were quiet, but coarse grains scored substantial gains in sympathy with wheat.

Chicago, April 3.—Corn rose 2½ cents a bushel to-day to the highest price level since March 6.

Belief prevalent that a tight marketing situation might develop in regard to fulfillment of May delivery contracts for corn was largely responsible for broadening of speculative dealings.

Corn closed strong, 1½ to 2½ cents higher, May 62½ to 63½. Wheat ⅝ to ⅞ up, May 95½ to 95¾. Oats ⅝ to ⅞ advanced, and provisions varying from five cents decline to a rise of twelve cents.

STILL LOWER AT TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, April 3.—The old familiar sag was still operating on the industrial market of the Toronto Exchange to-day, issues showing in practically all groups at the close. A few isolated points of strength appeared but 75 per cent of the listings recorded declines.

Recessions of ⅛ to ¼ were recorded for Nickel, Brazilian, Ford A and C.P.R. Distillery and oil issues weakened fractionally.

Bell Telephone gained more than a point and Consumers Gas improved a point. All the Quebec power issues eased down. In the foods the features on the weak side were Weston's issues, the common dropping 2½ and the preferred ½.

Trade was slow in the steels with losses predominating, banks were quiet, and in the miscellaneous group Goodyear common dropped more than 4 points.

WATCH HEALTH OF DOMINION

Senate Committee Approves Resolution of Victoria Member; Conference Plan

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 3.—Approval of the proposed Dominion-wide conference of ministers of health whose main object will be to ascertain general conditions of health in Canada to-day was given by the Senate public health and inspection of foods committee.

Meeting under the chairmanship of Senator H. S. Beland, Liberal, Montreal, the committee adopted a resolution to this effect moved by Hon. J. H. King, Liberal, Victoria.

The resolution recommended further that the government co-operate with the provincial authorities "in co-ordinating the most effective measures to maintain and improve health conditions in Canada," and that "the government consider the advisability of continuing federal grants to divers bodies and associations which make it their concern to educate the public in the field of social health and prevention of disease, and of re-establishing certain grants which have been discontinued, namely, those to the Mental Hygiene Council and the Canadian Hygiene Council.

HITLER TO VISIT DANZIG ON FLIGHT

Canadian Press from Havas

Danzig, April 3.—Rumors were widely circulated here to-day that Chancellor Adolf Hitler will make a stop in the free city on his scheduled flight from Berlin to Koenigsberg, East Prussia, on Saturday, the day before the elections to the Danzig Volkstag.

In the election the Nazis hope to obtain a two-thirds majority which would enable them to revamp the free city's constitution and make it a totalitarian state like Germany. The Nazis already have a majority in the Volkstag.

Rumors circulated to the effect that Reich cabinet members and lesser officials due this week will clinch victory. Air Minister Hermann Wilhelm Goering is due to arrive to-morrow and Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels on Saturday.

The League of Nations commissioner, Sean Lester, has protested to Geneva over the acts of terrorism by Nazis against Socialist candidates.

BOND MARKET TREND UPWARD

Associated Press

Heaviness in a scattering of corporate issues failed to check a fairly general trend toward higher levels in the bond market to-day.

Principal gainers included issues of Chile Copper, Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania and Western Union. Obligations of American Smelting and Refining, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Youngstown Sheet and Tube gave up fractions to a point.

Foreign issues were mixed.

Return Of Tarzan

It was quite dark before La, the high priestess, returned to the Chamber of the Dead with food and water for Tarzan. She bore no light, but through the vines grating above a bright moon served dimly to illuminate the interior. The ape-man, crouching in the shadows, came forth to meet the girls as he recognized it was she.

"They are furious," were her first words. "Never before has a human sacrifice escaped the altar. They have searched the length—oh save this room, which they fear. Already fifty have gone forth to track you down. Come, let us go here for my can go through liberty before I must return." Silently, Tarzan followed her from the grisly spirit chamber.

She led him back to a place beneath the other room. Ten minutes they groped their way down a sound winding passage, coming to a closed door. Tarzan heard her fumble with a key. A metal bolt gave way and they entered. "You will be safe here until to-morrow night," she said. Then she went out and locked the door behind him.

Did even Tarzan's trained ears avoid pursuit the other Mahdaran. Cautiously he felt his way ahead. Finally he stopped. A distinct draft of fresh air was blowing in somewhere between the massive stones. Carefully he felted material and was rewarded. One block out roughly. It his surprise, he thought he discovered a false door directly ahead of him.

Is Mother or Father More Important | Considers Relative Influence on Child

A CORRESPONDENT asks: Which is it better for a child to have, a superior father or a superior mother? A superior mother, of course. There is no arguing that point. Few fathers have much to do in shaping their children's lives, but their mothers make them the kind of men and women they turn out to be.

Of course, every child is entitled to two good parents and it needs both of them in its development. But if it should have the misfortune to lose one of them by death or divorce it is better for the youngster to have the mother left than the father. In case one of the parents is a higher type of individual than the other and has more intelligence, a stronger character, finer principles, it is more important to the child that this one should be the mother than the father. It is better for children to have a good mother than a good father if they can't have both.

There are many reasons for this, the obvious one being that the mother has more contact with the child than the father. She is with it constantly in its plastic period and so she forms its pattern of life and stamps indelibly on it her own manners and morals and habits and prejudices and points of view. While the father, whose association with his children is confined to a hurried good morning and a little desultory conversation before early bedtime in the evening, has little opportunity to impress his ideals on the youthful minds.

Thus, whatever the mother is, the children are. If she is a lady, her children will be ladies and gentlemen. If she has charming and gracious manners, so will her children have. If she is dignified and refined in speech and deportment, so will her children be. But if she is loud and vulgar and uncouth, if she yells at the top of her voice and wears clothes that scream at the beholder and tells smutty stories, her children will be young hoodlums, no matter how elegant and polished their father is.

No man can make ladies and gentlemen out of his children if their mother isn't a lady, but she can perform the trick even if their father is a sword-swallower an dregards goodma nners as the earmarks of a sissy.

Whether children get an education or not depends upon their mother. Their father may be a scholar entitled to write half the letters of the alphabet after his name, but if Mother is uncultured and has no interest in literate things it will be only a stray chick who will peck at the grains of learning. The others will agree that there is no use in studying when there are so many more amusing ways of entertaining themselves.

But if Mother is determined that her children shall have an education they will be put through college, no matter at what sacrifice to herself. Men are apt to say that the education that was good enough for them is good enough for their children, but millions of mothers say that their children shall not grow up as ignorant as they are, and they pay for their boys' and girls' college degrees by making over their old clothes, by skimping on the butter and the butchers' meat and by offering themselves up as willing sacrifices on the gas range and the washtub.

Mothers make their children's places in society. It is women who do the social climbing and pull their children up after them. It is women who see that their children go to the right schools and meet the right people and walk under the right awnings.

It is Mother who makes friends for her children, who opens doors for them, who launches them in careers and gets them married. Unless Father is rich and has social prestige the family is socially sunk, but Mother, somehow, gets her shoulders under the load and holds the children in their place in the sun, even if she has nothing but a little credit at the grocery and grandmother's old silver teapot.

Nine times out of ten what children achieve in the world is due to their mother. An ambitious mother has driven more men to success than has any talent of their own, or any insatiable yearning they themselves had for accomplishment. It was mother who began talking to them in the cradle about the great things they were going to do in the world. It was Mother who set the goal before them. Mother who always urged them on. It was Mother who buched them up when they grew weary and discouraged, who breathed into them her own relentless determination never to give up, never to falter, never to turn back until they had reached the top.

Every great man has had a great mother, but many great men have had weak fathers. Few great men have had great sons. And so, taking it all in all, if it can't have both, it is better for a child to have a superior mother than a superior father.

Uncle Wiggily Upside Down

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Even though spring had arrived in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains where Uncle Wiggily lived in his hollow stump bungalow, the weather was still a bit cold. Back of the bungalow was a large drift of snow which the spring sun wasn't yet strong enough to melt.

"That's part of our winter left over," Uncle Wiggily said to he looked at the heap of snow. Part of it had been blown there by the wind and some of it came from the yard where the rabbit gentleman had shoveled paths in the snow in order that Nurse Jane could hang up the clothes on wash day.

The snow was on the shadowy side of the bungalow and the sun did not shine on it. That's why it didn't melt. One day Uncle Wiggily got ready to hop out from his bungalow to go adventuring. On his hind paws he wore shoes, but around his neck, hanging by a string, were rubber boots.

"Why are you taking your rubber boots and wearing your shoes as you go adventuring?" asked Nurse Jane Funny Wuzzy.

GIVES TWO REASONS

"For two reasons, just as there are two rubber boots," said the rabbit gentleman. "Though it isn't raining now, I may shower before I get home. You laughed at me yesterday for taking an umbrella with me—but—but—I was right, wasn't I?—I was right, wasn't I?—yes, I was right to-day. But I will take my rubber boots and in case it rains I'll take off my shoes and hang them around my neck and wear my rubber boots."

"I'll laugh at you just the same," squealed the naughty lady housekeeper. "It won't rain to-day and you'll have all the trouble of carrying your rubber boots for nothing."

"That's where I'll have the laugh on you," chuckled Mr. Longears.

"It may," said Uncle Wiggily, "but that isn't the reason I shall laugh. You see I have to take these rubber boots with you anyhow. They have holes in them and I am taking them to the cobbler dog to have him mend them."

"Oh!" said Nurse Jane. "All right." She started to make a cabbage pie and Uncle Wiggily hopped on over the fields and through the woods looking for an adventure. On the way he met Mrs. Netall, the lady frog.

"Pick umbrellas!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Do they grow on trees?"

"Bless me! I should have said toadstools," said the lady frog. "You see we frogs use toadstools for umbrellas, and as this is the rainy month I came out to pick some."

BOOTS UPSIDE DOWN

"I'll help you," said Uncle Wiggily, who was always kind, even to his foes, and he and Mrs. Netall had a fine time. It was a little after this that Nurse Jane, going out in the yard to hang up the dish towels, looked at the big heap of snow back of the bungalow. Sticking out of the top were Uncle Wiggily's rubber boots, upside down!

"Oh, my goodness!" cried Nurse Jane. "Uncle Wiggily must have slipped and fallen into the snowdrift head first. He's in there now with only his rubber boots sticking out. Come on, everybody!" she cried. "Help dig Uncle Wiggily out of the snow!" Mrs. Longears, Mr. and Mrs. Twistytail and Mr. Whitetail got shovels and dug in the snow. But they couldn't find Uncle Wiggily! Only his boots were in.

While they were wondering what had happened to him, along came Mr. Longears himself, wearing his shoes. "Oh," he said when he saw the boots and they told him how they were stuck in the snow. "The cobbler dog must have done that. I left my boots with him to be mended and he said he would have them at my bungalow. Just for fun he stuck them inside here in the snow! Ha! Ha! Ha!" The rabbit lady laughed. And if the kitchen stay with let the gravy boat take the egg beater for an oyster soup, mister. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Robin's book.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1935

Until late to-day the stars appear to frown upon earth. According to astrology there is great promise for business, but discouraging reports may retard enterprise.

Commerce is likely to be affected by the aspect of Neptune, which seems to presage many secret trade agreements and covert international pacts.

This is an auspicious day for signing contracts or leases that are not of Major importance. There is a sign that is read as indicating many changes of dwelling-places and increased demands for housing.

This is a lucky wedding day and fortunate for betrothals, but puppy love should be sternly ignored by clever girls.

Earthquakes in the Far East again are prognosticated, while hurricanes and cyclones will destroy life and property in many places. Singapore is under an ill omen that may stir up military activity. Unrest among many nations with trained armies will increase as the spring progresses.

A London astrologer calls attention to the fact that Neptune has been dominant in the horoscopes of dictators. Mars is gaining power in the direction of the stars that guide Mussolini. Sensational air feats by Italians are prognosticated, but Italy is subject to a risky fall. Sharp trade dealings and other difficulties.

Persons under Virgo's influence in the aspect of a year of unrest and unsettlement. For many good business openings are indicated, for others sudden journeys to strange places.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly gifted. These subjects of Virgo usually are intellectual and many have artistic talents.

Thaddeus Stevens, statesman, was born on this day, 1792. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Grinling Gibbons, sculptor and wood carver, 1648, and Jean Francois Delavigne, French dramatist, 1793.

C.N.S. West Indies Service Is Growing

Increase in Gross Revenues of $552,763 Is Shown in Annual Report Tabled in House of Commons

Otawa, April 2.—Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited, showed an increase of $552,763 in gross revenues during 1934 as compared with the preceding year, according to the annual report tabled in the House of Commons yesterday by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

Operating expenses during the same period increased by $151,444, or 4.39 per cent as against the increase of 19.69 per cent in gross revenues. The operating deficit in 1934 was reduced to $95,678, as against $497,097 in 1933, a betterment of $401,419.

After providing for bond interest, amortization of discount, depreciation on vessels and interest due the government, the total deficit for 1934 was $1,110,879 as compared with $1,544,073 for 1933.

TRAVEL AND CARGO

The increase in revenues, the report states, reflects the increase in travel to the West Indies as well as the larger volume of cargo moving both south and northbound, particularly bananas, which amounted to 1,970,426 stems in 1934 against 1,059,436 stems in 1933. The increase in expenses was due to higher fuel costs. The fleet consists of eleven vessels which steamed 659,817 miles, as compared with 641,426 miles in 1933. The self-insurance fund in which these vessels are covered, now stands at $1,169,292, as compared with $907,271 in 1933. The fleet operated throughout the year without serious casualty of any description.

The annual report of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Limited, shows an increase of $72,602, or 3.26 per cent in gross revenues during 1934 and an increase in operating expenses of $181,969, or 8.10 per cent, accounted for by additional voyages to Australia and New Zealand during the year and by the increased cost of fuel

MORE SAILINGS

The increase in revenue is largely accounted for by increased sailings between Canada and New Zealand, of which there were twenty-four completed in 1934 against twenty-one in 1933. The report shows the fleet was comprised of ten vessels at the end of 1934, the Canadian Pioneer, of 6,466 tons deadweight having been sold for $10,000 during the year.

In presenting their report the trustees stated: "The company, in common with other steamship lines, has continued to feel the result of depressed trade conditions and while there was an improvement in revenue in the early part of the year, this was not maintained throughout due to lack of purchasing power of the wool and hide markets."

Victoria Boy In Air Deal

Charles Rutten, Formerly of This City, Now One of Heads of Big Alaska Company

Anchorage, April 2. — One of the biggest deals in Alaska aviation was closed yesterday when the Star Air Service of Anchorage took over the entire fleet and equipment of the McGee Airways of Anchorage.

It included eight planes, three radio stations, hangars and other equipment. The consolidated service will continue to base here, serving Bristol Bay and the Kuskowim district with ten pilots and ten mechanics.

Linn McGee will go with the Star Service as operations manager.

The sale, for an unannounced sum, makes Steve Mills, Star Service president, and his associates, Jack Waterworth and Charles Rutten, heads of the largest aviation organization in the territory.

Charles "Chuck" Rutten, is well known in Victoria. He received his education here, and when a student at Victoria College was one of its leading ruggers. He studied aviation in Seattle, and during the last few years has been flying in Alaska. He visited Victoria on holiday last summer.

SHANGHAI POLICE OFFICERS ARRIVE

Three young members of the Shanghai Municipal Police reached Victoria yesterday evening from the Orient by the American Mail liner President McKinley. They were en route to the United Kingdom to spend the summer at their former homes in England and Scotland.

In the party were Samuel Craig of Redmorden Lane, England; Hugh Edgar of Glasgow, and Norman Hicks of Berkshire, England. They proceeded to Seattle aboard the President McKinley and will cross the United States to New York, from where they will sail for the United Kingdom.

"We like our work a lot," one of the officers said just before he disembarked to have a look at Victoria. "There are many inconveniences, perhaps, but it is interesting and China is certainly a great country."

Newly Converted Barges Are Ready

Completely transformed into work-a-day barges, the former sailing ships Wm. T. Lewis and Roverdale, were floated out of the Dominion Government drydock at Esquimalt harbor yesterday evening. They were converted in Vancouver, and during the last few days Tarrow's Limited workmen have been giving the two vessels coats of paint.

To-day a third sailing ship, the Lord Templetown, was put in drydock for cleaning and painting by the Victoria Machinery Depot. The fourth vessel of the fleet, the Star of England, will not be drydocked, as she was put in the basin some weeks ago.

Property in Enniscorthy, Irish Free State, is being sold at $5 a foot, an unusually high price compared with recent years.

FAMOUS ATLANTIC LINER WILL BE BROKEN UP

SS. MAURETANIA

London, April 3.—After more than twenty years as one of the fastest Atlantic liners, the Mauretania of the Cunard-White Star fleet will be broken up at Rosyth, Scotland, it was officially announced to-day. The Mauretania is still one of the fastest Atlantic liners, and a few years ago made the crossing from New York to Plymouth in four days seventeen hours and forty-nine minutes. The German liners Bremen and Europa and the Italian liners Conte di Savoia and Rex are her only superiors.

The Mauretania was built at the Newcastle yards of Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson Limited, in 1907. She is registered with Lloyd's at 30,696 tons, with a length of 762 feet, a beam of eighty-eight feet and a depth of fifty-seven feet. She has four steam turbines. Her home port is Liverpool, although she has made Southampton her terminus during her many years on the Atlantic run.

This is the second of the large and famous Atlantic liners to be ordered to the scrapheap during the last few weeks. The other is the Leviathan.

LEAVE LINER AT THIS PORT

Several Passengers Aboard Ss. President McKinley Disembarked Here

Several passengers reaching Victoria yesterday evening from the Orient aboard the American Mail liner President McKinley disembarked here before the ship proceeded to Seattle at 2.30 o'clock this morning.

Clocker of Norway, who will cross Canada on his way to his former home at Arendal; Miss Betty Cleverly of Shanghai, a missionary en route to England via Toronto, where she will visit friends for some days; James B. Hopkins of St. Joseph, Mo., who is spending a short vacation at the Empress Hotel before proceeding east and Miss Winnifred Ross, Girls' Camp director of Toronto, returning from a business and pleasure visit to Japan.

Commander Richard H. Booth of the United States navy arrived by the President McKinley from Manila, on his way to Washington, accompanied by Mrs. Booth and Miss Barbara Booth. They will visit in Harlan, Iowa, before reporting to navy headquarters at the nation's capital.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA

Britishers from far-away places aboard the President McKinley were W. Awatral of Bombay, en route to the Panama Canal Zone, and Harry Honeyman, business man from South Africa on his way to New York and London.

Others aboard the President McKinley were Miss A. D. Lehmann of Seattle, Dr. A. E. Stuhr of Seattle, Mrs. Sarah M. Vardy of New York, Mrs. Gilman of Shanghai, Mrs. B. G. Kittowski of San Diego from Shanghai, Mrs. L. C. Porter of Peking for Chicago and Mrs. J. Tottenham of Spokane returning from the Philippine Islands.

Capt. David G. Austen was on the bridge of the President McKinley when she docked at 7.15 o'clock yesterday evening. For Victoria the liner had 600 measurement tons of general Orient freight. She reached Seattle at 9 o'clock this morning and will remain there until she sails on her return across the Pacific April 18.

Vancouver Shipping

Vancouver, April 3.—Five thousand stems of Canal Zone bananas and a parcel of United Kingdom freights for this port are inbound on the Donaldson Line freighter, Parthenia, Captain A. Bankier, due to-day to Balfour, Guthrie and Company.

The vessel is booked for an outward cargo of 5,000 tons of British Columbia freights, including 1,000 tons of lead and 1,500 tons of grain from the Fraser River, and 1,000 tons of wheat and the balance in lumber from Vancouver.

Ss. Tyndareus, in to-day from the Orient, is landing thirty-two passengers, 1,000 tons of Oriental freights at Vancouver, and will then proceed to Woodward's Landing in the Fraser River to unload 1,500 tons of rice, it was announced by Dodwell and Company, ships agents. The vessel will load a full outward cargo, half of it for the Japan-Australian ports.

The fast passenger ship, Hikawa Maru of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line, is due at quarantine late Friday with 100 passengers and a good Vancouver cargo, including three cars of silk, R. W. Greer and Son Limited, agents for the ship, announced to-day. Announcement was also made that the Ms. California Express of the Fruit Express Line, will not call here or at New Westminster this trip. The vessel will turn at Seattle.

Ms. Bonnington Court arrived yesterday from Vancouver Island ports to complete her cargo here. She will load lumber and general for Montreal, on her first departure this year for the eastern Canadian port.

Yamashita Shipping Company Limited, has the freighter Bordeaux Maru at New Westminster, loading spelter logs and lumber for Japan.

Ss. Pennington Court has shifted to Dollerton to complete loading grain and lumber for the United Kingdom, Angel-Canadian Shipping Company, ship's agents, report.

Deep sea ships entering New Westminster last month totalled thirty-three, as compared with thirty-six in March, 1934. For the first quarter of 1935 there have been 116 ships as against 116 in the first quarter of 1934. While shipping at the river port was down slightly last month as compared to 1934, the total cargo tonnage was greater.

Ms. Abraham Lincoln is due here to-day to the Anglo-Canadian Shipping Company, with gravel freights from Europe and a parcel of 100 tons of fresh fruits from California.

The auxiliary schooner Malahat has gone on drydock for scraping and general repairs, and will be off the docks in a few days, it was announced by the Burrard Drydock Company of North Vancouver.

Princess Elaine Put In Drydock

Will Resume Vancouver-Nanaimo Run Next Week; Princess Adelaide Back

After receiving annual overhaul alongside the Belleville Street docks, the Ss. Princess Elaine went to the Dominion Government drydock this morning for annual cleaning and painting. She will be released on Friday. The V.M.D. is doing the work.

Before resuming her duties on the run between Vancouver and Nanaimo, the Princess Elaine will bring a special excursion, the first of the year, from Vancouver to Victoria on Saturday.

While the Elaine has been in Victoria her place has been taken by the Ss. Princess Victoria, which will return to Victoria next week.

The Ss. Princess Adelaide left drydock yesterday, and this evening will sail from Vancouver for Prince Rupert and other northern ports. The Ss. Princess Louise, which has been on the Adelaide's run, has returned to Victoria, and will shortly be overhauled in preparation for starting her season to Alaska in two months' time.

Work will shortly be started on overhauling the two largest steamers of the fleet, Princess Kathleen and Princess Marguerite. They are expected to start on the triangle run during the middle of May.

SAY SHIP ON NORTH SHORE

Witnesses For West Vancouver Swear Princess Alice There at Time of Mishap

Vancouver, April 2.—Witnesses for the Corporation of West Vancouver, which is claiming damages of $30,000 from the Canadian Pacific Railway, swore on the witness stand in Admiralty Court yesterday that Ss. Princess Alice was in the north lane of the deep-water channel in the Narrows when she collided with West Vancouver Ferry No. 5 on February 4.

Chief Mathias Joe, who resides on the north shore opposite Prospect Point, and William John Mooney, assistant signalman at Prospect Point, said the Japanese C.P.R. steamship was north of mid-channel line at the time of the accident. Cross-examination by J. P. McMullen, counsel for the C.P.R., failed to shake their testimony.

Mooney, who was on duty at Prospect Point at the time, described rowing out to the scene of the collision immediately after the crash was heard through the fog. Previously he had traced the courses of Ss. Princess Alice and the ferry by the sound of their whistles. Rowing back to the lighthouse, he said, he had seen Ss. Venture passing inbound in the deep-water channel between him and the lighthouse.

Chief Mathias Joe, who heard the crash from his house, told of seeing the masts and funnel of the Princess Alice from the north side of the channel. Distance of the ship from the shore approximated 200 yards, he said. He claimed he checked his estimate of the spot where the collision occurred by his position in relation to familiar landmarks.

Testimony of Harry Cox, signalman at Prospect Point, brought out that the bell on Calamity Rock, controlled from his station, had been turned on two days previously on account of fog. Between 9.15 and 9.45 on the morning of the collision, or half an hour after the event, he said he overheard officials of the ferry company saying the bell was not working. Prior to that time he had received no reports that the bell was not sounding. When vessels are passing in the channel it is impossible to hear the bell from Prospect Point station, he said.

Dud Torpedo Damages Big U.S. War Vessel

U.S.S. Northampton, 10,000 Tons, Hit By Forty-five knot Torpedo During Manoeuvres Off California Coast

San Pedro, Cal., April 3.—Struck by a dud torpedo, the U.S. cruiser Northampton ploughed through fleet manoeuvres to-day as though nothing had happened.

The 10,000-ton vessel carried a sizeable but unimportant dent in her steel plates as a memento of the accident, which might have resulted disastrously if the torpedo had carried its warhead load of TNT.

The forty-five-knot torpedo crashed into the Northampton last week during target practice on the navy's drill grounds off San Clemente Island. It was fired from a distance of about 800 yards.

Navy men, pointing out that the head of a torpedo is usually knocked off in an impact of this sort and sinks, regarded the loss of the torpedo with more concern than the mishap and attendant inconvenience to the Northampton.

The cost of a single torpedo runs into thousands of dollars. In simple target practice the missiles are loaded at the head with sand or some other non-explosive. Their impact with an ordinary target merely stops the torpedo and they are fished out of the water and used again.

Admiral William H. Standel, chief of naval operations, announced from his headquarters in Washington that a request had been received to place the Northampton in drydock at Mare Island to repair bent plates.
